PRESIDENT SETS CAP FOR ROLE OF PEACE ARBITER

Eyes Third Term as Means to End.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 25.—President Roosevelt, it was learned today, has bared to several Democratic officials the ambition to become the pacificator of Europe and Asia either as President of the United States or as the appointee of his successor to represent America in the peace conference that will end the war.

Also it was indicated to his confidants that if he should realize that ambition and if there should evolve from the peace conference that widely discussed federation of the powers, Mr. Roosevelt would consider himself the logical choice for first president of the world.

These ambitions are now engrossing the interest and energies of the President to the subordination of the presidential attention to domestic problems, according to leading New Dealers who are complaining that Mr. Roosevelt has abandoned their great program for "making America over."

Third Term or Control.

To attain these objectives it is essential that Mr. Roosevelt either get himself elected to a third term or get a successor elected who would appoint him chairman of the American delegation to the peace conference.

That his preference is to get a third term for himself is little doubted in official Washington, particularly in view of the encouragement given Democratic leaders by Mr. Roosevelt to enter his name in the presidential primaries in numerous states.

Most significant is regarded the failure of the President to withdraw his name from the Illinois primary before the withdrawal deadline last night. No less significant is regarded the character of the President's evasiveness on the subject, particularly his statement that he knew nothing about the filing of his name in Illinois, accounts of which have filled the newspapers.

Conversations Bare Plans.

The President's plans and ambitions have been divulged in conversations with Democratic officials and in several letters which are destined in due time to take their place in the historic record.

According to these accounts Mr. Roosevelt sees himself as the dominant figure at the peace conference molding the peace structure of the world as did Prince Metternich at the congress of Vienna after the downfall of Napoleon. In at least one conversation he mentioned Metternich as the statesman whose diplomacy he felt himself capable of equaling, nay surpassing.

It was Metternich who went down in history as the chief architect of the balance of power established at Vienna that kept the peace of Europe for a hundred years. Mr. Roosevelt thinks he could devise a permanent peace.

Determined to Have Hand.

On more than one occasion the President has said that he is determined to have a hand in the settlement of the European war. And his project is not confined to the continent of Europe. He believes that the pacification of Asia can be accomplished at the same time.

His confidants gathered from his remarks that Mr. Roosevelt conceives it to be his mission to employ the power of the United States to obstruct the subjugation of China by Japan until the European war shall end and Great Britain and France shall be free to come to the aid of China.

Then, as the President conceives it, the peace conference would be broadened to embrace the Asiatic war and Mr. Roosevelt, invoking the arts of Metternich, would manipulate a settlement forcing Japan to evacuate China.

Recalls Wilson's Mistakes.

In these conversations the President indicated his determination to avoid the mistakes of President Wilson in the negotiation of the Versailles peace treaty, which the United States senate failed to ratify. Mr. Roosevelt would not make Mr. Wilson's mistake of excluding senators from the peace delegation. He would include even Republican senators.

Mr. Wilson's mistake of going to Europe himself while President as head of the American delegation also

WELLES LANDS IN ITALY; SEES iL DUCE TODAY

Rome Greets Envoy with Pomp.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Feb. 25.—Sumner Welles, American undersecretary of state, was received with wide open arms and tightly sealed lips today on his arrival in Europe in quest of a basis for peace. With diplomatic pomp and pageantry he was swished from the liner Rex at Naples to the Excelsior hotel in Rome, from which he will begin conversations looking toward the formulation of a sound and lasting peace.

Tomorrow morning he will call upon Count Galeazzo Ciano, Italian foreign minister, in the Palazzo Chigi. In the afternoon, he will make his way to the spacious office of Premier Mussolini in the Palazzo Venezia.

While there was warmth in the welcome accorded the career diplomat who has been given an assignment similar to that with which President Wilson entrusted his friend, Col. Edward M. House, in 1916, the silence surrounding his visit was regarded as most significant.

Papers Have Other News.

House succeeded in speeding the entry of the United States into the world war. Welles is not likely to repeat the blunderings of the amateur diplomat, in the opinion of his associates.

The leading Italian papers, in their enthusiasm over the birth of a daughter to the princess of Piedmont, devoted no space today to the Welles visit.

It was made clear that while Italy desires peace as earnestly as the United States, studied caution will be the policy toward the Welles mission.

In his movements today Welles stayed away from his fellow voyager, Myron C. Taylor, lawyer and industrialist, who is going to the Vatican as President Roosevelt's personal representative to coöperate with Pope Pius XII. in any peace move. There was no mingling of the church and state in the official reception to the Americans. Taylor has an audience with the pope fixed for noon Tuesday.

Greeted by Ambassador.

The greeting delegation boarded the Rex shortly before the vessel docked, after making its way thru the placid, deep blue waters of the bay of Naples. Welles first was met by William Phillips, American ambassador to Italy; Edward L. Reed, counselor, and Allan S. Rogers, second secretary of the embassy.

Close on their heels was a representative of Count Ciano, a corps of high ranking army and navy men and Blackshirts. Welles, who was dressed in a dark suit, expressed his pleasure at meeting his greeters. As photographers' bulbs flashed and movie cameras ground, the undersecretary again told the press he had nothing to say.

Wife Is with Him.

"My instructions are to report only to the President and the secretary of state on my observations," he said, "and I intend to carry out my instructions."

Welles was preceded down the gangplank of the vessel by his wife, her niece, Miss Thora Ronalds, and his valet. Mrs. Welles led a white Scottie, named Toby, on a leash thru the customs examination. Mrs. Welles and her niece will not accompany the undersecretary to Berlin, Paris, and London, but will remain in Italy while he carries out his mission.

At the Garibaldi station in Naples a crew of station attendants brushed and rebrushed yards of red plush carpet which had been laid in the train shed for the diplomat and his party. Potted palms were strewn in profusion in the station. Workmen began removing these as soon as the party had passed.

Huge Floral Offerings.

At Rome red plush carpeting also had been spread and huge floral offerings were placed about the doorway thru which the party walked to waiting limousines. Carabinieri [guards] in their colorful red and blue plumed hats, Blackshirts, and other military personages were present at the reception.

Welles went immediately to his hotel where he dined quietly with his wife, and niece, and his two diplomatic aids, J. Pierrepont Moffat and L. Hartwell Johnson. Taylor arrived at the hotel an hour after Welles. He did not go aboard the special train the government provided for Welles but drove from Naples with his wife.

AN OLD PAL WHO IS BECOMING MOST EMBARRASSING

Rackets Fatten on Germany's Food Shortage

BY E. R. NODERER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Feb. 25.—A number of petty rackets are springing up in Berlin as a result of the food and fuel shortage.

Recent articles in the German press indicate that grocers are taking advantage of Germany's ersatz [substitute] program to offer food products of their own design. Two came to light when the Schwarze Korps, organ of the Schutzstaffel [SS] attacked retailers who sell a "dark liquid" as coffee extract at a high price.

Home Grown Tea Is Grass.

"German grown tea" sold in paper packages covered with Chinese script was said to be ordinary grass.

German housewives are urged to denounce to the police those storekeepers who charge more than the official prices for their goods and they are warned not to make purchases at "profiteering prices." Fruits and vegetables, both of which are scarce, are said to be particularly subject to profiteering.

Haggle for a Taxi.

Coal men have found that customers anxious enough to obtain fuel will stand for a little shaking down. In many cases they threaten to dump coal in the street instead of taking it inside unless the householder comes thru with a few pfennigs as tribute.

Among the chief offenders are taxicab drivers who take advantage of the scarcity of cabs to demand exorbitant fares after other transportation ceases at 1 a. m. Many will accept passengers only after haggling over the price for the journey which often is three to five times the meter rate.

Negro Mother Gives You a General Idea of Her Family

Pompano, Fla., Feb. 25 (AP).—Investigators who sought to determine the needs of Negroes suffering from effects of the January cold wave related this one: A woman, asked the ages of her four children, declared she couldn't remember. Pressed, she finally said: "Well, I got one lap child, one creeper, one porch child and one yard young 'un.'"

British Steamship Lost; 33 Rescued, 5 Missing

LONDON, Feb. 25 (AP).—An Exchange Telegraph dispatch [British] from Funchal, the Madeira Islands, said 33 survivors of the 4,580 ton steamship British Endeavor were landed at Funchal today by another British vessel. The report said five of the crew were missing, but did not tell when or how the ship was sunk.

The "Day by Day on the Farm" department is being resumed in today's Tribune. It was discontinued for the winter months, but now that spring is just around the corner, there's much of interest going on in the fields and barnyards. "Day by Day on the Farm" will report life and work on the farm each day as it has for more than six years. Today's story appears on page 21.

FIND EVIDENCE FOOD RATIONING CUTS BIRTH RATE

Bloomington, Ind., Feb. 25 (AP).—A glandular shrinkage in chicks during shortened food rations was reported today at Indiana university, giving rise to speculation on possible effects of the wartime rationing of food on human birth rates.

The glandular shrinkage apparently strikes hardest at the glands of internal secretion. These include the reproductive glands and the pituitary. The latter, at the base of the brain, regulates sex and other functions in distant parts of the body.

The discovery was made by accident when too many baby chicks were left in a laboratory cage. Dr. W. R. Breneman of the zoölogy department was using them during a study of sex and pituitary hormones. The overcrowding went unnoticed until the weight of the chicks dropped. They were not starved, but merely on short rations.

The condition of their glands, however, proved surprising. The weight drop in these organs was about 25 per cent more than in the body as a whole. There was a drop in sex tone.

WED 18 MONTHS, THEY'LL LIVE ON HONEYMOON ISLE

Tampa, Fla., Feb. 25 (AP).—An electrician, 23 years old, and his bride of 18 months are to be the first honeymooners on Honeymoon Isle, off the Tampa shore, even tho they fail to meet the isle's requirement that guests be married less than 30 days.

Clinton M. Washburn, owner of the isle, found a way to admit Francis Ahern and his blonde wife, Ella, who is 19, after they rode in on a bus from Philadelphia, Pa., declaring they were still on their honeymoon, "romantic as ever."

Washburn was firm about the 30 day rule, but he solved the problem this way: He hired Ahern as electrician for the development, and announced that Mrs. Ahern will be hostess to other honeymooners. The isle has been fitted out to accommodate newly married couples, 50 couples at a time, for two weeks each. It will open on March 9.

Blaze Sweeps Relief Office; Blame Firebug

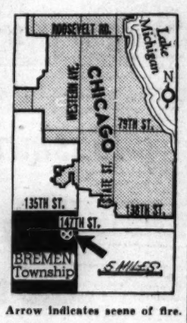
Fire that police believe was incendiary wrecked the interior of the Bremen township relief office at 147th street and Cleveland avenue, early yesterday. Many of the relief records were destroyed. Three investigations were ordered.



Arrow indicates scene of fire.

Lieut. Fred Mulhausen of the county highway police heads one. Frank E. Doherty, chief deputy state fire marshal, heads another. Leo M. Lyons, executive secretary of the Illinois Emergency Relief administration, ordered the third launched by Raymond Hilliard, head of the fraud investigation division of the IERC.

Relief Books Audited.

Authorities were puzzled as to the motive for the fire. One suggestion was that it may have had some connection with an audit of the relief office books, which was begun Friday.

Police also were investigating a theory that disgruntled reliefers might have been responsible. Otto Ziebell, township relief administrator, said he had received many threats from reliefers. Ziebell, who also is Bremen township supervisor, returned Friday from a vacation. He told Mulhausen he delegated the relief work to Paul Blakemore on Nov. 1.

The fire was discovered by Mrs. Lillian Hoven, 65 years old, relief office caretaker, who sleeps in the office building.

Woman Tells of Fire.

"I heard a window smashed," Mrs. Hoven said, "and saw a fire bomb land on the floor of the office."

Deputy Fire Marshal Raymond Dunkle Jr. reported he found the charred remains of a burlap sack which evidently had been soaked in kerosene, inside the building.

Eugene A. Brown, colored investigator for the relief office, appeared while Mrs. Hoven was being questioned. Police arrested him on a charge of disorderly conduct, accusing him of interfering and being abusive. He was released on $25 bond.

There are 560 families on relief in the township. Relief expenditures range from $15,000 to $18,000 a month.

Police Regain $18,000 Taken from Field's

The $18,000 robbery last Monday in the loop store of Marshall Field & Co. was solved early today with the arrest of a Works Projects administration worker who confessed the crime. Virtually all the money was recovered. The confessed robber is Walter R. Pugh, 34 years old, 1641 Millard avenue. He involved a store employé, who, he said, engineered the holdup.

Solution of the robbery was due to fast and clever detective work by Lieut. Kyran Phelan, Sergt. Walter Paradowski, and Detectives Martin McGuire and George Kush of the detective bureau.

Arrest Made in Five Hours.

Less than five hours after they had received information pointing to Pugh as the bandit they had his confession, and had recovered almost all the loot. In announcing the arrest, Lieut. Phelan said that Howard Sallows, an armed guard employed by the store, had been named by Pugh as his accomplice, and the author of the robbery plot. Sallows disappeared from his apartment at 1009 North State street, Geneva, a few days ago. Police said he has left the state but they know his whereabouts, and have sent out an order that he be seized.

The holdup was committed in a subbasement of the Field store. The ease with which it was accomplished immediately aroused police suspicion. Sallows, the guard, who was armed, was helping Arthur Waiflein, 1309 Belmont avenue, a cashier, carry a small money chest into an elevator. The operator was Miss Hazel Olson, 934 East 81st street.

Opens Chest with Key.

A man—now known to have been Pugh—stepped up to them. He prodded Sallows in the back with what police at the time assumed was a gun, and disarmed him. Then the robber forced Sallows to run the elevator, with Miss Olson and Waiflein aboard, to a point between the first and second floors. Then he produced a key, opened the money chest, removed a black zipper bag containing $18,066, and escaped with it.

The key to the money chest, Pugh told police, he had obtained a week earlier from Sallows. This was one of the puzzling features of the holdup—police being unable to understand at the time how or where the robber had obtained it.

This was not the only manner in which Sallows helped, Pugh alleged. Pugh told Lieut. Phelan that he did not even have a gun of his own; he used Sallows' gun after the first step, he asserted.

"I was unarmed," said Pugh, "when I stepped up to the elevator. I poked Sallows in the back and took his gun. I used it during the rest of the robbery, but got rid of it as soon afterward as I could."

Seek to Recover Gun.

He told his police questioners that he tossed the weapon into the Chicago river from the Roosevelt road bridge. The river will be dragged in an effort to recover it.

The money was recovered from the bottom of an ash filled can in Pugh's home, where he was seized. He was hiding in a coal bin. Pugh's arrest followed information conveyed indirectly to police by several fellow WPA workers.

Pugh, married and the father of three children, was employed as a painter by the Illinois Arts project [a WPA unit] at 10th and State streets. He made the error of going there after the robbery and leaving the black zipper money bag which had contained the $18,066 in a pile of rubbish. One of the employés poked around in the pile of rubbish and noticed the bag. Next day he read a newspaper account of the robbery and at once associated it with the black zipper bag.

Report Suspicion to Police.

That same day Pugh failed to report for work and his wife telephoned the project office that he was ill. Pugh later let drop remarks that indicated he had come into considerable money. All this information was imparted to police.

Lieut. Phelan and his men went late last night to Pugh's home. His wife, who answered the door, said he was not in, but he was found hiding, and was taken to the detective bureau. Shortly after midnight he confessed and told where the money was. Police went back to his home and found it in the ash can. He had spent only $50.

Britain Quits Trying to Make People Eat 'Macon'

LONDON, Feb. 25.—The government has dropped the attempt to get the public to switch its taste from bacon to "macon"—mutton cured to taste like bacon. Devised as an experiment when bacon supplies were running low, the food ministry tried to persuade Britons to take to "macon" as a substitute. Few people acquired a taste for it.

MAIL CLIPPERS SKIP BERMUDA TO FOIL BRITISH

Select New Route on Hops to Europe.

New York, Feb. 25 (AP).—Europe-bound American Clipper planes after March 15 will skip Bermuda, where British censorship and seizure of United States airmail has aroused a storm of criticism.

The Pan American Airway's announcement today that eastbound Clippers would omit the Bermuda refueling stops, begun last October at the request of the colony's trade development board, came only three days after publication of the story that a consignment of United States mail was seized in Bermuda Jan. 18 by British marines.

According to published reports Capt. Charles A. Lorber was forced to surrender 2,600 pounds of mail, half of the Clipper's mail load, at bayonet point. The British denied that military force was used, asserting that a technical show of force was made in the seizure at the request of Lorber to perfect a test case as a basis for protest.

No Mention of Censorship.

Several members of congress urged after the story's publication that American transport planes bound for Europe should pass up the islands.

Without mentioning the controversy over censorship, the company's announcement stated simply that direct flights from the United States to Horta, the Azores, would now be possible because a better weather reporting service was available. The Azores belong to Portugal.

There have been reports, however, that Pan American has suffered a sharp decline in mail consignments to Europe since imposition of the Bermuda censorship, which would be an important added reason for skipping the British possession.

It's What Hull Suggested.

In Washington tonight a state department spokesman said the Bermuda decision was entirely Pan Americana, but Secretary of State Cordell Hull warned at the start of the airmail censorship controversy that the Clippers might well omit the Bermuda stop.

Pan American will, it was said, continue its regular service between Bermuda and Port Washington or Baltimore, a service carried on by smaller seaplanes than the Clippers used for the trans-Atlantic service.

The route on westbound flights, in which European mail bound for the United States also is censored, will remain as at present—the planes stopping at Bermuda.

Began Stops in October.

Pan American began making stops at Bermuda en route to the Azores last October, as an "advisable" move in view of the war restriction on weather reports.

The twice a week shuttle service of the company to the island will not be affected by the change.

The trans-Atlantic Clippers will return to their original route direct across the Atlantic to Horta, the Azores, followed from the time the service was established in May, 1939, until last October.

The direct flight to Horta will save the flying boats about five hours in the Atlantic crossing, at least an hour of which is consumed in refueling at Bermuda.

Miami Another Terminal.

Transatlantic Clippers at present are starting their eastbound trips from Baltimore because of ice conditions at Port Washington, the regular New York terminal. Miami is another alternative American terminal, used when winter conditions interfere with service at Baltimore as well as at Port Washington.

Recently Pan American announced a plan to pass up the stop at Horta as a means of shortening the time of the ocean trip, but this has not been put into effect.

Darrel's Island, the Bermuda terminal, is the only point at which Great Britain can censor Clipper borne mails destined for Europe or coming from Europe. The big planes load only at Horta and at Lisbon, their eastern terminal.

NEW WORRY FOR LONDON.

LONDON, Feb. 25 (AP).—The discontinuance of the Bermuda landing for eastbound Pan American Clippers gave a new worry tonight to the British, who are seeking to sift United States mail to Europe thru a mesh of contraband control and censorship.

Officials did not comment immediately on the opening of a loophole, which the British have been trying to block, for the passage of dollars or military information to the Germans via normal letter channels.

Trans-Atlantic boat mail is regularly examined and the scrutiny of Clipper mails at Bermuda had completed the barrier.

UKRAINIANS PUT SET OF DEMANDS UP TO RUMANIA

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Feb. 25.—The demands of the leaders of the Ukrainians in Rumania to be allowed their own schools and the protection of the Ukrainian Orthodox church, now being pressed on the government, have brought the Ukrainian movement into the limelight again. The center of the movement is in Bukovina. Of the 1,000,000 Ukrainians in Rumania, about 300,000 are in Bukovina and about 700,000 in Transylvania and in Bessarabia.

The Russians made use of Ukrainian troops in the occupation of the Polish Ukraine, and on the frontier with Rumania they have set up loudspeakers and broadcast in the Ukrainian language.

The Russians have since been reported as imprisoning Ukrainian leaders and substituting Asiatic for Ukrainian troops; Ukrainian refugees returned to Rumania with tales of persecution, and the Ukrainians changed their attitude. The Rumanian government began counter-propaganda and granted some concessions to the Ukrainian minority, and a representative of these people was made a senator by royal decree.

SALES MANAGER VANISHES; POLICE SEARCH STARTED

Police were searching last night for Jacob W. Waldman, 44 years old, 6422 Greenview avenue, a sales manager, who disappeared Saturday morning. He was carrying more than $500 when last seen.

Waldman was due in his office in a fur company at 323 South Franklin street at 9:30 a. m. Saturday with two customers. At 9:30 he telephoned that the customers were not with him and that he was going to a barber shop. A few minutes before then, it was learned later, he had parked his car in the garage in the office building where he has his offices. He never returned for the car. At 10 a. m. he was seen walking past the Auditorium hotel barber shop, Wabash avenue and Congress street. He has not been seen since.

Waldman is married and the father of a daughter. A brother, Albert Waldman, told police he is a man of steady habits, with no known enemies.

SLATE MABBATT AS NEW MAYOR OF LAKE FOREST

Richard H. Mabbatt, head of a paper company bearing his name, was slated last night as Lake Forest's new mayor. He will head an unopposed ticket, making his election certain.

Mabbatt will succeed Kent Chandler, mayor for the last three years. His selection was agreed upon at the annual caucus attended by 40 citizens in the home of Francis E. Manierre, a former mayor.

Two new aldermen also were slated. They are Elliott Donnelley, a manufacturer and member of the printing family, and Edwin MacDonald, a world war aviator. Donnelley will succeed Ald. Randolph Owsley of the 1st ward, and MacDonald will succeed Ald. Frank Hoffman, of the 2nd.

Report Reds Kill Eleven Honoring Mexico's Flag

MEXICO CITY, D. F., Feb. 25 (AP).—Eleven men were killed when communists fired at a crowd that was honoring the Mexican flag today in Santa Cruz de Galeana, according to dispatches from Celaya, state of Guanajuato. Nine others were wounded. The dispatches said the communists, belonging to a rural reserve, fired on members of an organization known as Sinarquistas.

Scandinavian Nations Unite to Bar Attacks on Neutrality

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Feb. 25 (AP).—The foreign ministers of Norway, Sweden, and Denmark tonight expressed hopes for a peaceful solution of the Finnish-Russian conflict which would preserve "the full independence of Finland" and decided their own countries would continue their policy of neutrality in Europe's wars.

A communique issued after the foreign ministers had conferred here on mutual problems said they had "ascertained their unanimity in respect of the policy of neutrality" and rejected "all assertions to the effect that this is exercised under pressure from one side or the other."

Object to Sea War.

Their nations heavy sufferers in the war at sea, the men agreed, according to the communique, to "raise serious objections to, and endeavor to avert violation of, principles of international law in the conduct of naval warfare."

The conferees were Dr. Peter Munch of Denmark, Halvdan Koht of Norway, and Christian Gunther of Sweden.

Gunther asserted that the bombing of the Swedish border town of Pajala last week, which the Swedish government charged was carried out by Russian warplanes, was not discussed by the ministers, but he believed the raid had been unintentional. Tass, official Russian news agency, has denied that Russian warplanes bombed Pajala.

The Danish press, however, printed reports today from North Finland that two soviet Russian pilots, now prisoners of war, had admitted participating in the bombing of Pajala.

The dispatches quoted the pilots as saying that 13 planes took off from the Arctic Russian air base at Murmansk last Wednesday under orders to bomb the Finnish town of Rovaniemi.

[Rovaniemi is about 75 miles southeast of Pajala, which is about 6 miles from the Finnish frontier.]

Six of the planes were forced to turn back because of engine trouble, while the other seven dropped their bombs without knowing where they were at the time, the Russians were reported to have said.

Norway Replies to Britain.

OSLO, Norway, Feb. 25 (AP).—The Norwegian government formally notified Britain today that arbitration of the Altmark affair would be proposed if a satisfactory settlement could not be reached otherwise.

In a note to the British government, Norway reviewed the entire incident of Friday, Feb. 16, in which British sailors boarded the German prison ship in a Norwegian fjord and removed 299 British captives. It expressed the hope that Britain "after the statements now given will feel convinced the Norwegian government in this matter strictly has followed international law."

"In case the British government stands on the same viewpoint as before, the Norwegian government will propose that differences of opinion between the two governments be submitted to arbitration—the form of this arbitration to be the subject of closer examination," the note said.

BLAZE SWEEPS COSTUME SHOP; LOSS IS $5,000

Hundreds of theatrical costumes were destroyed last night by fire which swept thru the three story brick building at 6 East Kinzie street.

The fire, which necessitated a 3-11 alarm, started on the first floor, occupied by the Lindeman Food company, and spread to the two upper floors, occupied by the Jean Costume company. All three floors and their contents suffered heavily from fire, smoke, and water.

The apartment of Jean Porter, owner of the costume place, was also damaged. He was not around at the time of the fire, and firemen searched in the ruins on the supposition he might have been burned to death. Fire Commissioner M. J. Corrigan estimated damage at $5,000.

FINNS BREAK UP RED TANK DRIVE ON ISTHMUS LINE

Russian Losses for Month Set at 100,000 Men.

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Feb. 25 (AP).—Nearly a month of the Red army's great February offensive has brought the hammer and sickle banner within a few miles of Viipuri, once Finland's second largest city, and has severely battered the Mannerheim line of defense fortifications.

The cost to Russia has been heavy, however. One foreign military expert estimated that an average of 4,000 Red soldiers has been killed daily on the narrow Karelian isthmus between the Gulf of Finland and Lake Ladoga. Finnish losses are not disclosed.

By this expert's calculations Russia thus has lost 100,000 in dead on the Karelian isthmus alone since the start of her offensive there on Feb. 1.

New Attacks Repelled.

Today's communique reported that Russian attacks continued but were repelled, 17 soviet tanks captured, and quantities of other war supplies taken.

There were unconfirmed reports that Finland's Koivisto island fortress, at the western terminus of the Mannerheim line, had fallen, tho official Finnish claims said the defense troops were still holding out there.

[The soviet army reported that on Feb. 25 it had broken thru Finnish fortified zones, and captured 28 of the Finns' defensive fortifications despite repeated Finnish counterattacks. The Russians said the enemy suffered heavy losses in the fighting. Ten Finnish airplanes were reported brought down in air battles.]

The Finnish communique declared "heavy casualties were inflicted on the enemy" and that Finnish artillery was in "lively action" along the isthmus.

Across Lake Ladoga the Finns said their forces had fought a "successful defensive action" and that a Russian attack collapsed under Finnish fire near Aittajoki.

The Finnish Communique.

Tonight's communique of the Finnish high command follows:

"ARMY: The [Karelian] isthmus on Feb. 24 was marked by enemy attacks of a local nature. The attacks were repelled and heavy casualties inflicted on the enemy. Our artillery was in lively action, dispersing grouped enemy detachments. At least 17 tanks were destroyed.

"Northeast of Lake Ladoga our troops fought a successful defensive action. The enemy was thrown back everywhere and left in our hands 27 machine guns, 21 submachine rifles, five trench mortars and large quantities of other infantry arms. Two tanks were put out of action.

"At Aittajoki an enemy attempt at an attack collapsed in our fire.

"At Suomussalmi enemy detachments which had crossed into Finland were hurled back across the frontier.

"In the direction [sector] of Petsamo one of our patrols consisting of 10 men drove off an enemy ski detachment of 180 men which later was surrounded. Elsewhere there was lively and successful patrol and guerrilla activity.

"AIR FORCE: Enemy air activity on Feb. 24 was directed against north Finland where certain localities were bombed. No lives were lost in the raids and the material damage caused was slight.

GERMAN ARMY CHIEFS GUESTS OF RED ENVOY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Feb. 25.—The tightening of ties between Germany and Russia, of which Adolf Hitler told in his speech last night at Munich, was emphasized at a Red army anniversary reception given here by the soviet ambassador.

High officers of the German army were guests of the envoy, Alexander Schvarzev, an announcement said today. Among them were Gen. Walther von Brauchitsch, commander in chief; Gen. Wilhelm Keitel, chief of the high command; Gen. Franz von Halder, chief of the general staff; Lieut. Gen. Ernst Udet and Col. Gen. Erhard Milch of the air force, and Admiral Witzel. Gen. Milch represented Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering.

British Admit War Plane Crash Killed 3 Near London

LONDON, Feb. 25 (AP).—Authority was granted today for publication of the fact that an airplane which crashed into a row of houses in Surrey last night, killing the pilot and two occupants of one dwelling, was a royal air force craft. The crash came just after the plane had taken off from Croydon airport. Two other occupants of the house, which was set afire, were injured.

15 Killed and 25 Injured in Crash of Mexican Trains

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 25 (AP).—At least 15 persons were reported killed and 25 injured today in a head-on collision of a northbound passenger train and a southbound freight train a few miles west of Queretaro, about 150 miles north of Mexico City. It was not learned immediately whether any Americans were on the train.

LAGGING LIVERS ARE A LURE TO CONSTIPATION

Laggard livers are often guilty in cases of temporary constipation. Unless the bile flow is sufficient to act on intestinal wastes, satisfying relief from a laxative is doubtful. Beechams Pills, because they gently stimulate the flow of liver bile, prove themselves a laxative that promotes real internal cleanliness. Try this mild-acting, purely vegetable compound—Beechams Pills—and help relieve headachy heaviness due to irregular elimination. All druggists.

JOHN T. PIRIE SR. DIES IN WINTER HOME IN FLORIDA

State Street Merchant and Civic Leader.

John T. Pirie Sr., State street merchant and a leader in civic affairs, died yesterday of a heart complication in the family winter home, Errol, in Plymouth, Fla. He was 68 years old.

John T. Pirie.

He was chairman of the board of Carson Pirie Scott & Co., of which his father, John T. Pirie, was one of the founders. He became chairman last year after having served 10 years as president of the company.

Mr. Pirie had been ill for several months. Last June he entered Presbyterian hospital for observation and treatment. Dr. R. C. Brown and Dr. H. L. Kretschmer, who attended him at that time, found that he was suffering from a heart ailment. Mr. Pirie later returned to his home at 930 East Rosemary road, Lake Forest. He went to Florida at the end of December, but his condition in recent weeks had grown steadily worse.

Family with Him.

With him when death came were his wife, Sophie; a daughter, Mrs. Margaret Pirie Faurot, and his two sons, John T. Pirie Jr., and Robert S. Pirie.

Funeral services are to be conducted Wednesday at 3 p. m. in the Lake Forest Presbyterian church. Burial will be private.

Mr. Pirie was born in Brooklyn, N. Y., on Sept. 11, 1871. He received his B. A. degree from the Polytechnic institute of Brooklyn in 1892. He married Miss Sophie Hunter in Brooklyn in 1897.

In 1893 Mr. Pirie entered the employ of Carson Pirie Scott & Co. and worked in all the departments for a number of years to learn the business. He was admitted to partnership in the company in 1901, became a director and vice president in 1919, and was elected president in 1929.

During the years Mr. Pirie was with the company it grew to be one of the nation's largest wholesale and retail houses.

Active in Transportation Work.

In addition to directing the affairs of Carson Pirie Scott & Co., Mr. Pirie was active in many civic enterprises and held directorships in other companies.

He was appointed to the state waterway board in 1923, and spent much time thereafter in the campaign for the development of a Great Lakes-to-gulf waterway. In 1925 he was named chairman of a special committee to unite the waterway advocates of Chicago and the rest of the middle west.

During this period he also was chairman of the Association of Commerce transportation committee, serving 11 years before his resignation in 1936, and taking the leadership in 1938 for another year. The committee was credited with successfully negotiating with railroads to give Chicago free store-door pickup and delivery service on shipments to the south, west, and southwest, a move that consolidated the city's position as wholesale center of the nation.

Wins Parity for Chicago.

Another accomplishment was the establishment of a freight rate adjustment into the area beyond the Ohio river, placing Chicago on a parity with the Atlantic seaboard in trade relations with the states in the southwest and the Mississippi valley.

In April, 1939, Mr. Pirie was named one of the nine members of the Association of Commerce committee to direct the Greater Chicago campaign.

He was chairman of the transportation committee of the downtown council, and chairman of a committee representing State street property interests which acted in their behalf in construction of the State street subway.

Other civic activities included three terms as mayor of Lake Forest and the vice presidency of the Chicago Zoölogical park at Brookfield.

Held Several Directorates.

Mr. Pirie held directorates in the Northern Trust company, the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois, the Commonwealth Edison company, and Ernest W. Brown, Inc., a New York insurance underwriting firm.

Mr. Pirie was a Republican. He was a member of the Chicago, Commercial, and Onwentsia clubs. His offices were in the wholesale branch of Carson Pirie Scott & Co. at 366 West Adams street.

In addition to his wife, daughter, and sons, Mr. Pirie is survived by two brothers, Alan H. Pirie of New York City and Gordon L. Pirie of Winnetka, vice president of Carson Pirie Scott & Co. and manager of the retail store, and two sisters, Margaret C. Pirie and Sarah I. Pirie, both of Sea Cliff, N.Y. A third brother, Samuel C. Pirie, who was a former chairman of the board of Carson Pirie Scott & Co., died in 1938.

GERMANS TO TRY HERO OF WARSAW ON FRAUD COUNT

PARIS, Feb. 25 (AP).—Polish diplomatic sources today reported German authorities were preparing to place Stephen Starzinski, mayor of Warsaw during the German siege, on trial on charges of misappropriating city funds. These sources declared that recent arrests by Germans included:

Stephen Starzinski.

Maciej Rataj, 56 years old, acting leader of the Peasant party and speaker of parliament before 1926; the Rev. Father Nowakowski, another Peasant leader, and Mieczyslaw Niedzialkowski, Socialist party chairman.

Vincent Witos, 72 years old, Peasant leader who returned from exile shortly before the Polish-German war, was arrested soon after Poland collapsed, they said.

During the twenty-day siege of Warsaw, Mayor Starzinski captured the imagination of the world with his daily broadcasts telling of the city's resistance to German attack.

SAYRE PREDICTS FILIPINOS WILL GO FREE AS PLANNED

Says America Would Not Bear Defense Costs.

MANILA, P. I., Feb. 25 (AP).—Francis B. Sayre, American high commissioner to the Philippines, forecast today that the United States would grant the islands their independence in 1946 despite various moves made to have the date canceled or postponed.

Francis B. Sayre.

The Manila Daily Bulletin in its 40th anniversary edition quoted him as saying in an interview any move for a change should come from the Filipinos and such a move appeared to be unlikely. The only kind of dominion status which the islands would accept would be one which the United States could not grant, he said.

Gives Two Reasons.

Sayre gave two reasons for believing the Philippines would be granted independence in 1946 under the Tydings-McDuffie act:

1. There seems to be no sound basis for believing that either the American or Filipino people seek essential alterations in the act.

2. Under probable world conditions it is not likely the American taxpayers would be willing to foot indefinitely the bills for building and maintaining adequate defenses in the Philippines.

"It is quite clear the Filipinos cannot achieve independence without severe economic strains and grave industrial dislocation," the Bulletin quoted him as saying. "The risks from internal breakdown or external aggression are great and manifest.

Crucial Decisions.

"The decisions by the Filipino people to ask for independence and by the United States to grant them independence were crucial and bold. But these decisions already have been made. The issue today isn't the wisdom of the original decisions but whether the program already launched and entered upon can or should be reversed."

ITALIAN ROYAL PRINCESS GETS SIX NEW NAMES

NAPLES, Italy, Feb. 25 (AP).—Princess Maria Gabriella, day old daughter of Crown Prince Umberto and Crown Princess Marie José, was christened with six new names today. Two more will be added later.

Cardinal Alessio Ascalesi, archbishop of Naples, officiated at the preliminary baptism in the pink tinted nursery of the Italian royal family's palace here. The new names he gave the princess are Gennaro, for the patron saint of Naples; Adelaide, Adelgonda and Giuseppina, for relatives of her Belgian mother; Felicita, for her saint's day, and Margherita, for various members of the ruling house of Savoy.

The names to be added later were not announced.

TURKEY STANDS READY TO MEET ANY ATTACKERS

Defenses Set; 500,000 in Armed Forces.

BY SAM BREWER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Feb. 25.—Turkey today is at peace but ready to defend herself any moment, if necessary. Informed sources believe there is no immediate danger, but all phases of the country's preparedness program have been put into effect. Along the Russian frontier 200,000 men stand watch and in Thrace there are almost as many. The French in Syria keep that frontier safe.

[The withdrawal of Turkish and Russian troops from the frontier in the Caucasus was reported yesterday in other dispatches. The withdrawals were made, it was said, in order to avoid friction.]

Lack of telephone communication with other countries since Thursday is blamed for foreign reports that Turkey is alarmed. Authorities say that the telephone lines were destroyed by a storm. There is a widespread belief, however, that the delay in repairing the lines was a censorship measure.

Want Another Front.

Turks fear that military necessity may inspire the British and French to want an eastern front, but that such a time has not come yet. Central European alarmist reports are believed in official circles here to be due to propaganda of the warring powers. The significance of such propaganda is that the belligerents thru it may be trying to justify some future program of their own.

During the past week a number of final defense steps, decreed some time ago, went into effect. There has been no mobilization, however. The army now stands at about 500,000 and that is enough of a burden for a country of 16,000,000.

Gen. Huseyin Husnu Kilkich, air defense chief, has been in Istanbul overhauling civilian defense and rescue units. These units will have special practice exercises on March 15.

Danger of Attack.

The only danger of attack on Turkey comes from the Caucasus. It is known that German technical experts and possibly a considerable number of skilled military technicians have been sent into that part of Russia, from which a drive could be made toward British operated oil fields in Iraq.

Any such move would be met not only by the Turks, if it touched their territory, but by Gen. Maxime Weygand's eastern army of nearly 200,000 French and natives—not half a million—and the British forces in the near east of about 250,000.

The weather in the Caucasus and in eastern Anatolia makes any such attack impossible now. In the territory concerned it would be almost impossible to use any transport except mules in the best of times and just now even mules would not do the job.

Bullets Riddle Dutch Plane as It Chases Nazi Flyers

THE HAGUE, Netherlands, Feb. 25 (AP).—A battle between a Netherlands patrol plane and a German warplane above Dutch territory was reported today by a government press bulletin. The combat began 24,000 feet above the town of Oss, in the province of Noord Brabant. While the German plane was fleeing toward Tilburg, machine gun fire was exchanged. A bullet struck the Dutch plane in the nose and two others pierced its tail.

Arrows point to towns where German planes appeared.

Government to Protest.

It was not known whether the German plane, described here as a Heinkel 111K, was hit. It escaped into Belgium.

The communique said the Netherlands government would make a strong protest to Berlin. It added that a protest also would be made against another German plane which was sighted near Woudenberg, east of Utrecht, and driven back across the border by antiaircraft fire. The German insignia was plainly seen on this craft, it was declared.

German Attack Repulsed.

PARIS, Feb. 25 (AP).—Repulse of a German attack between the Vosges mountains and the Rhine was reported tonight by the British-French high command. Its communique said:

"After preparation by trench mortars, the enemy attempted an attack on one of our posts between the Rhine and the Vosges. It was repulsed immediately with losses."

Artillery Active, Say Nazis.

BERLIN, Feb. 25 (AP).—Germany's high command reported today:

"Between the Mosel [Moselle] river and Palatinate forest, local artillery and reconnaissance activity.

"In the air, minor scouting and patroling on the French-German border and over the German [Heligoland] bight. A French and a British plane were shot down. No losses ourselves."

GEORGIA POLICE CHIEF SHOT DEAD IN ELECTION ROW

Abbeville, Ga., Feb. 25 (AP).—Chief of Police Sam J. Rhodes was shot dead tonight at a filling station, the climax of an old quarrel started by the killing of a dog and fanned to new heat by election animosity.

Howard Roberson, 30 years old, and his brother, Jack, 27, both mechanics, and R. C. Burkett, 60, an automobile salesman, were arrested and taken to out of town jails.

Animosity began several years ago with the killing of a dog owned by the Roberson brothers. Burkett was drawn into it because he campaigned for an opponent of Chief Rhodes in the sheriffs' race of a recent Democratic primary.

The shooting was the second in this town of 1,018 population since the primary Wednesday. Several persons were injured when a crowd awaiting the returns at the courthouse was fired into.

RUMANIA GIRDS FOR SHOWDOWN IN 'BATTLE OF OIL'

German Agent Makes Trip to Press Claims.

BUCHAREST, Feb. 25 (AP).—The Rumanian government braced itself today for a crucial conference with German negotiators over failure to supply the reich with the quota of oil promised under a recent trade agreement.

With the arrival this week of Dr. Karl Clodius, Germany's ace trade negotiator, Berlin is expected to present its demand in the strongest language.

Germany opposes not only the recent ban on the export of aviation gasoline and lubricants but also a boost in the export tax from 12 to 25 per cent.

Thaw Promises Trouble.

Diplomatic observers here frankly believe that a showdown in the oil situation, Rumania's greatest worry in attempting to maintain a precarious neutrality, is dangerously near.

With the Danube river blocked by ice, Rumania can blame transportation difficulties for her failure to deliver oil to Germany as promised, but there is general agreement that the first spring thaws may crack the situation wide open.

Thus far the Rumanian oil fields have offered Germany the only reasonably large foreign supply she has been able to tap, altho she is making efforts to insure a steady flow from the Russian wells along the Caspian sea.

Controled by Empires.

At least 50 per cent of Rumania's oil production is controled by British and French companies, and another 32 per cent is under mixed control which, nevertheless, is in the orbit of the western powers' economy. Germany controls less than one per cent of the total output.

When Rumania sought to have most of her oil sold abroad for foreign exchange on which she could collect a lucrative 25 per cent tax, she found herself suddenly facing Germany's disapproval.

When, in appeasement, she made a deal to ship 41 per cent of her estimated 1940 export—1,680,000 out of 4,100,000 tons—to the reich, Great Britain and France cracked down on King Carol's government.

EVENTS MAY FORCE SWEDEN INTO WAR, DECLARES PREMIER

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Feb. 25 (AP).—Prime Minister Per Albin Hansson warned Sweden tonight that, even tho she maintains her policy of nonintervention in the Finnish-Russian war, she must not overlook "the risk that she can be forced to guard her vital interests, freedom, and independence with weapons in hand."

"I hope it does not come to that, but if it comes Sweden will not hesitate," Hansson declared in a broadcast appealing to the nation for unity.

The premier said Sweden's help for Finland is increasing in new forms. Newspapers declared later that this was believed to include aid in meeting foreign payments.

Premier Hansson's suburban home is being guarded by police as a result of mailed threats he has received since he took a stand against lending armed aid to Finland.

Parliament today approved legislation effective tomorrow extending government control of gold and foreign exchange exports. Sweden hopes thus to safeguard foreign exchange funds for defense needs.

a new Hat on your Head

AND YOU'VE SPRING IN YOUR POCKET

OUR SPRINGTIME COLLECTION IS READY FOR YOU TODAY

Let the robin be the first sign of Spring to some—to a woman, it's her own new hat. This year, you'll look pretty. Prettier than you've ever looked before—in a flower petal toque, a hat bright with wings. You'll be completely feminine in clouds of misty veiling. Or you'll turn sophisticate and go in for swooping Cavalier brims, dramatic angles and sky-soaring quills.

Today, in a garden setting of fresh Spring flowers, you'll see a glorious collection of the season's distinctive hats. You'll see hats in all moods. Which mood you choose, depends on you.

four of spring's most important silhouettes

SAILORS are Spring's favorite silhouette. There are tiny brims and wide brims ranging from one to six inches. Many with pleated or multiple edges and touches of veiling.

CALOTS, intriguing little skull caps of grosgrain, taffeta, straw or felt that must be as carefully fitted as your new Spring dresses. Perfect with bangs or high forehead curls.

TOQUES, canotiers, pillboxes—whimsical, feminine hats covered with berries, wings, flowers and veiling. Pretty hats of straw, mesh or draped and pleated fabrics.

BRETONS are strongly revived in young off-the-face versions. They range from huge, angular brims to tiny baskets of fruit or flowers that perch well over your eyebrow.

At 9:30 we're ringing up the curtains on ten State Street windows dedicated to Spring hats, as are the luncheon Fashion Showings, Tuesday and Friday, in the Walnut and Narcissus Rooms.

1,810,315 TONS OF SHIPS SUNK, GERMANY SAYS

Another British Freighter Destroyed by Mine.

BERLIN, Feb. 25 (AP).—The German high command asserted today that 496 British, French, and neutral ships, totaling 1,810,315 tons and carrying contraband for Britain, had been sunk up to Feb. 21.

Ship losses suffered by Britain herself during intensive German air raids up and down England's east coast were not included in the high command communique's figure, according to D. N. B., official German news agency.

Calls British Worry "Justified."

The agency added that "just recently ship losses constantly have increased so that the worries of the British admiralty regarding future shipping are thoroly justified."

[An Associated Press survey Saturday gave the known toll since the beginning of the war for all nations, including naval vessels, as 425 ships aggregating 1,439,807 tons.]

British Freighter Sunk.

LONDON, Feb. 25 (AP).—Sinking of the British freighter Jevington Court, 4,544 tons, by a mine in the North sea was disclosed today when the crew landed at an east coast port. There were no casualties.

The captain of the Danish fishing boat Olympia put in at the Netherlands port of Ijmuiden and reported his vessel had been machine gunned by a German plane in the North sea while he was heading for England. The Olympia reversed its course, the captain said, and the German plane gave up the attack. Six bullets struck the deck, but none of the crew was injured.

A Reuters [British news agency] dispatch from Ostend, Belgium, reported that a British submarine took the Belgian fishing boat No. 78 into Harwich for contraband control inspection. The boat had wirelessed Friday that she was being towed to an unknown port by an unidentified warship.

Tourist Travel to Panama Tumbles to 2 Year Low

BALBOA, Canal Zone, Feb. 25.—Tourist travel to the Isthmus of Panama has decreased sharply, steamship passenger figures show. The totals for January were the lowest for any month in the past two years.

Oil for Germany

Broken line marks river, canal and pipe line route by which oil would be taken from the Russian fields on the Caspian sea to the Baltic, where it would be available to Germany.

MOSCOW, Feb. 25 (AP).—Construction of a new waterway link to connect the Black set and the Baltic, providing a cheaper, direct route for soviet oil shipments to Germany, is being pushed by Russia. The communist party newspaper Pravda today reported the work was in full swing and was expected to be finished by mid-April.

A 10 mile linking canal is being excavated between tributaries of the Vistula and Dnieper rivers to create a vast waterway for the flow from Russia's oil fields, which reaches the Black sea thru the Baku-Batum pipe line, to Germany.

The canal with eight locks is located about 50 miles east of Lublin in former Polish territory taken by Russia in the partition of Poland. It will unite the Pripet river, which empties into the Dnieper, and the Bug, which joins the Vistula northwest of Warsaw.

Slays 2 Children; Shoots Ex-Wife's Friend and Self

Akron, O., Feb. 26, Monday (AP).—Russell Foulk, 39 years old, shot and killed his son and daughter at the home of his divorced wife early today, wounded a man visiting his former mate, then shot himself. The children were Mary Jane, 2½, and Warren, 7. Frank Bender, 39, the visitor, was wounded critically. Bender staggered to police headquarters to report the shooting. At a hospital attendants said Foulk probably would die. Police blamed jealousy for the shootings.

FIRST COMPLETE CANADIAN FLYING UNIT IN ENGLAND

Squadron Ready to Join War in Skies.

LONDON, Feb. 25 (AP).—The first squadron of Canadian trained airmen arrived in England today to join in the war against Germany in the skies.

It was the first Canadian air force squadron ever to arrive from overseas as a complete unit, a fact that called attention to the British plan for making the Canadian prairies a vast empire school that will graduate 25,000 flyers a year.

The airmen sang as they disembarked. "We've Got a Lovely War to Win" and "Wait 'Til We Get Them Up in the Air" were two of the songs.

Welcomed by Britain.

Capt. H. H. Balfour, air undersecretary, told the flyers in a speech of welcome: "Today must be an unpleasant one for Herr Hitler and his gang."

Squadron Leader W. D. Van Vliet, leader of the Canadian contingent, replied, "What is expected of us I know we can do."

[A dispatch from Canada stated the air unit, which included cowboys, trappers, and former mounties, was the No. 110 army cooperation squadron. With medical and dental attachés it totaled 429. The squadron will get its planes in Europe.]

New Raid on Heligoland.

British flyers made reconnaissance flights last night over the Heligoland bight area where Germany has air and naval bases, the air ministry reported today. A British plane was reported to have fought off six attacks by five Messerschmitt planes.

[Germany reported minor flights over Heligoland bight by enemy craft.]

During leaflet raids over Prague early Saturday, British bombers were disclosed today to have dropped flares on the famous Skoda munition works at Pilsen and the Bren gun factory at Brunn, both in former Czecho-Slovakia.

OKLAHOMA DAM QUARREL BRINGS MILITIA THREAT

Okemah, Okla., Feb. 26 (AP).—Gov. Leon C. Phillips said today he would "use the National Guard, if necessary," to see that the state is paid for lands which will be inundated by the Grand river dam, a federal project.

"I have told them [the Grand river dam authority] that I'll not permit the dam to be closed up until we get our money," Gov. Phillips said.

Oklahoma has contended it should receive $869,000 for the reconstruction and rerouting of highways which would be inundated.

IN PRAISE OF PRAISE

By CALEB

A FEW DAYS ago I paused in walking through the store. I wanted to do a little eavesdropping. There was something in the face of the young man which literally stopped me. It was radiant. And the older man was smiling. As there seemed to be nothing particularly private about the conversation, I paused at a counter nearby.

I heard the older man's closing remarks. He was praising his young assistant for a difficult job well done.

I felt a little taken in. Just a matter of business? Just a few words of praise? Had nothing more been required to thus animate that fine young face?

"Assuredly," I had thought, "this fellow must have just been left a million dollars. Or perhaps he has had a fine raise. Or maybe he's being told at the last minute that he can have the girl, after all."

I was wrong. He had simply been given a few stimulating words of appreciation.

Three or four times that afternoon the incident came back to me. It engrossed my thoughts. It reproached me. "How many times in the past week might I have spoken a few words of appreciation, when I didn't?" was the question I asked myself.

Then I remembered the letter which William James once wrote to some Radcliffe students who sent him flowers on a certain Easter.

"I am deeply touched by your remembrance. It is the first time anyone ever treated me so kindly. . . . I now perceive an immense omission in my Psychology; the deepest principle of human nature is the craving to be appreciated, and I left it out altogether from my book, because I had never had it gratified till now. I fear you have let loose a demon in me, and that all my actions will now be for the sake of such rewards."

Although the letter was written in good-humored exaggeration, the great and moving vein of truth in it was profoundly earnest. Psychologists have confirmed again and again this mighty human yearning to be appreciated.

When the world is faced with great problems which disturb its peace—when economic and social upheavals beset the nation—when big businesses are absorbed with the numerous common difficulties of the day—the paying of praise may not seem like much of a trouble-solvent. Yet, if everyone started squaring debts of appreciation at once and kept it up, a great deal of good would be the result.

You and I, at least, can adopt the practice. It is fine for the home, for business, for school, and for every human relationship and activity.

'HARMONY' DRIVE EXPECTED TO AIM BLAST AT STELLE

Predict Discordant Note for Campaign Opening.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Illinois Democrats began yesterday to take a new interest in the luncheon of the combined state and Cook county organizations at the Morrison hotel tomorrow. They have heard that Lieut. Gov. John Stelle will be handled without gloves on that occasion.

Some of the leaders who helped draw up the slate which Stelle bolted to run for governor are unusually angered by his declaration in a press statement issued last Saturday that he was filed as a candidate for his present post "without any direct authority" from him. They intend to prove that the opposite is truth.

Plan to Show Documents.

The plan as it now stands is to display two documents at the luncheon. One of them is Stelle's certificate of candidacy bearing his signature. The other is a page from the nominating petition circulated in the lieutenant governor's office in Springfield and signed by Stelle's secretary, George E. Schuppe. Both documents bear the notarization of Alfred E. Eden of Springfield, secretary of the state senate, over which the lieutenant governor presides.

But the attack on Stelle's veracity will not stop with the display of the two papers. Photostatic copies will be distributed to the crowd at the luncheon. Members of the state central committee may have several if they wish to send to counties in their districts. Members of the Cook county central committee will be told to display them in their headquarters.

A "Bombshell" Is Planted.

In addition to this part of the luncheon program, it is predicted that another attack on the insurgent ticket will be sprung as a surprise—what is customarily referred to by political writers as a bombshell. The luncheon was planned as a demonstration of the harmony behind the regular ticket headed by Harry B. Hershey. But it was planned two weeks ago. Now thoughts of a love feast have been abandoned.

Mayor Kelly has sent word that he will cut short his stay in Florida and will be at the luncheon. It also has been reported that State's Attorney Courtney, also in Florida now, may be among those present.

At Springfield last night Stelle issued another statement referring to the "clique" that selected the Hershey ticket, but he declined to amplify that part of his Saturday statement concerning his position that because of the "disability" of Gov. Horner the lieutenant governor should take over the powers and duties of the chief executive.

From the state headquarters at Springfield came the announcement that Charles E. Bliss, law partner of Hershey in Taylorville, and former state president of the Young Democratic organization, has been made state manager for the regulars. There was also an announcement that Hershey and his associates will open their campaign with a massmeeting in the Springfield armory next Wednesday.

Other massmeetings will be held at Rockford on Thursday, at Peoria on Friday, at Danville on Saturday, and at Marion next Monday.

Queen of Havana

[Acme Photo.]
GLORIA SUAREZ.

HAVANA, Cuba, Feb. 25 [Special].—A queen who's sure of reigning longer than most is Gloria Suarez, 18 year old Cuban beauty. For she has just been crowned carnival queen before a vast throng in the Havana Municipal stadium — and carnival here lasts until the middle of March.

BIG ARGUMENT OVER WHETHER THE I. Q. IS O. K.

St. Louis, Mo., Feb. 25 (AP).—The value of intelligence tests as a gauge of a child's ability was criticized and defended by speakers at opening sessions of the 70th annual convention of the American Association of School Administrators. Dr. Paul A. Witty, professor of education at Northwestern university, declared the intelligence tests fail to bring out many factors which have a bearing on a child's intelligence.

John E. Anderson, director of the institute of child welfare at the University of Minnesota, argued that the tests had been the greatest single factor in measuring a child's talents.

PRESIDENT SETS CAP FOR ROLE OF PEACE ARBITER

Considers Third Term as Means to End.

has been pondered by Mr. Roosevelt, who suggested that this difficulty might be obviated by electing Secretary of State Cordell Hull to the presidency and by Mr. Hull's appointment of Mr. Roosevelt to head the American peace mission.

Points to Welles Tour.

To the officials who have received these confidences from the President there is nothing mysterious in his current moves in relation to the presidential election and to peace in Europe. His dispatch of Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles to Europe to sound the powers on peace, his appointment of Myron Taylor to collaborate with Pope Pius on peace possibilities and his initiation of conversations with neutral nations on the character of the peace are regarded as maneuvers to exploit Mr. Roosevelt as the logical world pacificator.

The inference then would be that it would be advisable for the United States to retain him at the helm or a person of his choice for the presidency during the next four years.

Neutrals Barred Last Time.

Unless the United States enters the war Mr. Roosevelt cannot be assured of a hand in the peace. Neutrals did not take part in the Paris or any other peace conference. Europeans who blame Woodrow Wilson's visionary panaceas for the current war are voicing demands that America be kept out of the next war settlement.

Mr. Roosevelt, however, has set out to organize the neutrals to demand a voice in the peace. If that demand becomes sufficiently insistent Mr. Roosevelt can look forward to a place at the peace conference, provided he or a President of his choice occupies the White House at the time.

Rep. Martin Resigns Place as National Committeeman

Washington, D. C., Feb. 25 [Special].—Representative Joseph W. Martin Jr. [R., Mass.] frequently mentioned as a possible "dark horse" Republican presidential nominee, resigned today as Republican national committeeman from Massachusetts because, he said, his duties as Republican leader in the house required all of his time.

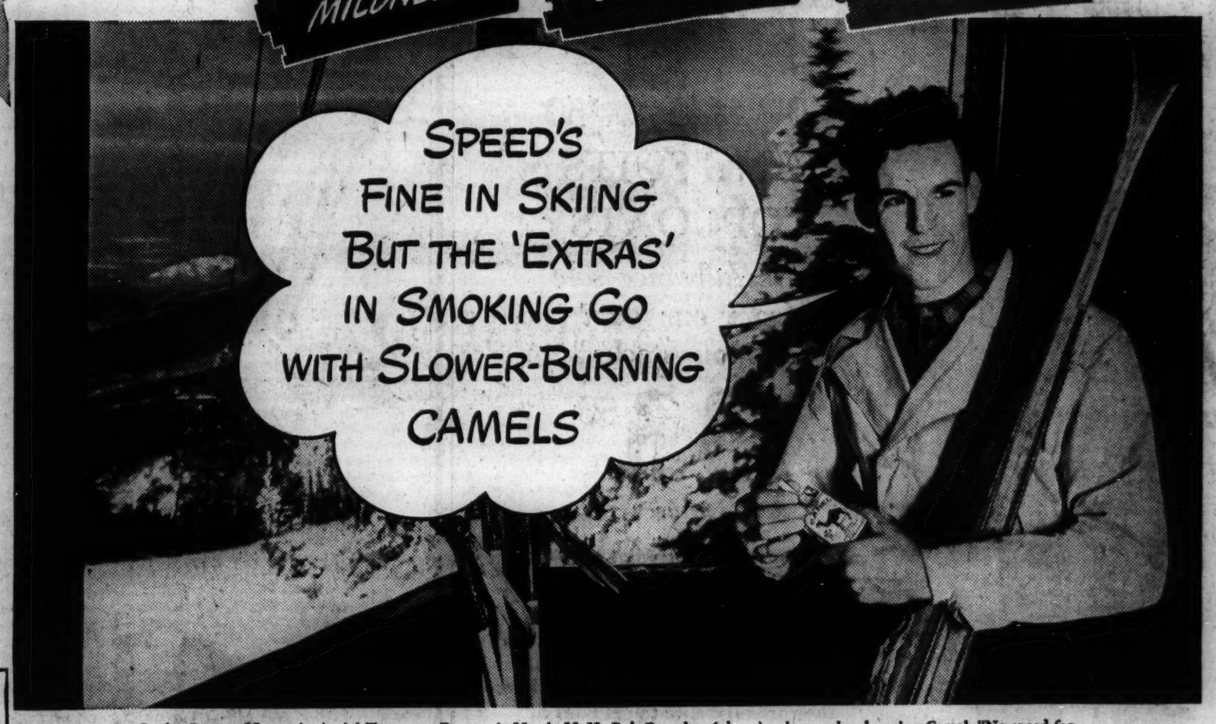
LIKES FLASHING SPEED ON SKIS

but chooses slow-burning Camels for

It takes your breath away even to watch him. Headlong down the steep side of the mountain...straight for a dangerous edge. A flash of the poles...a cloud of snow... a perfect telemark turn...and there he goes ...down, down...faster and faster. That's Bob Bourdon, former Vermont champion. On skis, he's one of New England's fastest. But in smoking, he's strictly on the slow side. Read what he says (at right).

EXTRA MILDNESS — EXTRA COOLNESS — EXTRA FLAVOR



In the Cannon Mountain Aerial Tramway, Franconia Notch, N. H., Bob Bourdon (above) enjoys a slow-burning Camel. "No speed for me in my smoking," says this ski champion. "Camels are slower-burning and give me extra mildness, extra coolness, and extra flavor."

In recent laboratory tests, CAMELS burned 25% slower than the average of the 15 other of the largest-selling brands tested — slower than any of them. That means, on the average, a smoking plus equal to 5 EXTRA SMOKES PER PACK!

"THE faster the going, the more fun in skiing," says Bob Bourdon. But he has a different angle on cigarettes. When Bob Bourdon says: "Slow burning is my guide to more mildness, more coolness, and more flavor," he's putting the stamp of actual smoking experience on the laboratory findings of science.

Fast burning in a cigarette means heat. Nothing dulls the delicate elements of cigarette flavor and aroma so surely as excess heat. There's little pleasure or comfort in a hot, flat smoke in which the flavor has been burned away. The extra mildness, refreshing coolness, and that smooth, mellow "I'd-walk-a-mile-for" flavor of Camels are confirmed by recent widely reported scientific tests, in which Camels . . . the cigarette of costlier tobaccos . . . burned the slowest of the sixteen of the largest-selling brands tested! (See panel at left.) So, change to slow-burning Camels and enjoy extra pleasure and a welcome "dividend" of extra smoking . . . equal, on the average, to five extra smokes per package of Camels.

PRIMARY BOARD GETS WARNING ON ROOSEVELT RACE

G. O. P. Candidate Cites Law on Entry.

BY PARKE BROWN.

George S. Lavin, former assistant attorney general and now a candidate for Republican nomination for congressman at large, gave a new turn yesterday to the controversy whether the name of President Roosevelt should go on the Democratic primary ballot in Illinois altho the petition for that purpose did not include a signed certificate of candidacy.

George S. Lavin.

Lavin sent what he described as letters of warning to Gov. Henry Horner, Secretary of State Edward J. Hughes, and State Auditor Edward J. Barrett. Those three constitute the state primary certifying board which has the sole authority to instruct county clerks of the state to place President Roosevelt's name on the ballot.

Warned of Law Violation.

The letters warned each of the three that approval of the Roosevelt petition without a certificate of candidacy would constitute a violation of the primary law. In a public statement and in a brief or memorandum accompanying the letters Lavin asserted that such a violation is subject to criminal prosecution on charges of conspiracy.

Lavin also sent a letter to President Roosevelt that was of the same tenor but added these paragraphs:

"I feel certain that you would not want any citizen, much less important public officials of this state, even to contemplate a violation of the law of the state in your behalf.

"I therefore prepared a legal memorandum, a copy of which I am herewith inclosing, in the hope that if you agree with my point of view you will advise the certifying board that it is your wish that the petition filed in your behalf should not be certified."

Appeal to New Dealers Seen.

Lavin's action was of interest to Republicans generally because of the belief that the only purpose of the Cook county Democratic organization in entering President Roosevelt's name without his authorization and, as far as is known, without his consent, was the hope that it would bring out a larger New Deal vote than would come out in a contest entirely local in character.

Lavin, however, acted entirely as an individual, without consulting any branch of the G. O. P. organization and even went so far as to express privately a willingness to undertake prosecution of the members of the certifying board if they carry out what now is accepted as the agreed plan of the Democratic organization.

He waited until after the last day for petition withdrawals in Springfield—Saturday—before starting his single-handed battle.

"I deem it my duty as a citizen of this state to call your attention to the fact that such an act on your part would be contrary to law," he said in his letter to each member of the certifying board, "and I know that you gentlemen would not knowingly violate the law."

Court Decision Cited.

Lavin closed his brief with this citation from a decision of the Illinois Supreme court:

"Sections 45 and 46 of the criminal code do not explicitly embrace conspiracy to violate the provisions of the primary election statute. But every conspiracy to do an unlawful act or to do a lawful act for an illegal, fraudulent, malicious, or corrupt purpose or for a purpose which has a tendency to prejudice the public in general is in common law an indictable offense."

Lavin's contention is that the primary law requires that every petition include a certificate of candidacy. He also stresses that section of the primary act which says that no candidate for President of the United States "who fails to comply with the provisions of this act" shall have his name printed upon any primary ballot.

Brooks-Lyons Canvass to Start.

While the candidates are putting in their second week of intensive downstate campaigning together as a team, workers for Wayland Brooks, candidate for United States senator, and Richard J. Lyons, candidate for governor, will be starting the task of canvassing every precinct in Cook county. Their headquarters announced that 11,771 canvass books and half a million cards have been distributed.

The pledge cards recite that the voter is for Brooks and Lyons "because of their eight year fight," because they are "youthful, intelligent, and qualified" for the offices they seek, and because their nomination is necessary for Republican victory next November.

Dwight H. Green, now Lyons' only opponent since the switching of Earl B. Searcy from the race for governorship to that for the lieutenant governorship, also will spend most of this week downstate. But he will be the center of a workers' rally in the La Salle hotel tonight.

It ran into trouble as they were landing. The four men escaped thru an emergency hatch and were rescued.

BRIDE CONTINUES HUNT FOR $100 TO BAIL OUT GROOM

Mrs. Elmer Skold, a bride since Friday afternoon, probably is getting a little weary by now of having her honeymoon postponed. But her weariness is as nothing to Elmer's. He's been in the East Chicago, Ind., jail on a reckless driving charge since about three hours after the wedding.

Mrs. Skold, locked up over Friday night, was released Saturday morning to try to raise $100 bond for Elmer, who passed a red light while thinking of other things and hit another car. Despite frantic telephone calls to Congress Park, where both live, nobody with $100 had been found up to late yesterday afternoon. The police said they were sorry for Elmer, but couldn't take his car in lieu of bond since it wasn't worth the $150 damage done to the other auto.

Elmer said he didn't blame the police for holding him, nor for holding his wife Friday night when she argued with the desk sergeant. But he added that it wasn't a nice way to spend his honeymoon.

WISCONSIN TOLD 90 PER CENT OF ITS DEBT IS FEDERAL

Madison, Wis., Feb. 25.—Nearly 90 per cent of the total government debt now burdening the taxpayers of this state is attributable to federal indebtedness, the Wisconsin Taxpayers' alliance points out in a bulletin to be released tomorrow.

The total indebtedness of the state and its political subdivisions was placed at $150,750,000 by the state tax commission in its last report. Almost eight times larger, or an estimated $1,152,000,000, will be Wisconsin's share of the federal government's indebtedness at the end of the current fiscal year.

This burden of more than one billion dollars is equivalent to four-fifths of the 1938 income of all Wisconsin citizens, estimated at $1,586,000,000 by the National Industrial Conference board.

SLUSH CHARGES WILL GET AIRING IN COURT ACTION

Suit in Springfield Asks for Accounting.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 25.—A complete court investigation of reported irregularities in collections and disbursements from a Horner campaign fund became a possibility tonight as a result of a lawsuit to be heard here tomorrow by Circuit Judge L. E. Stone.

The suit, as it now stands, merely asks for an accounting and a recovery for state employés who were assessed 2 per cent of their salaries in a campaign fund raised by Horner leaders. Attorney A. M. Fitzgerald, counsel for the plaintiff, said tonight that the accounting of necessity might cover collections and disbursements of other campaign funds.

"It is my understanding," said the lawyer, "that the money derived from state employés has not been kept separate from campaign funds from other sources. So an accounting might have to cover everything."

Avoids Current Rumors.

Attorney Fitzgerald said he was intentionally avoiding any mention of current scandal rumors in his pleadings, but is relying for court action upon an allegation in his suit that nine high Democratic state officials converted campaign funds to their own use.

This allegation is somewhat technical. It is founded upon a charge that the managers of the fund raised from state employés failed to file an accounting with the secretary of state in accordance with the statutes governing nonprofit corporations.

The campaign fund from state employés was organized in 1935 as a nonprofit corporation under the name of the Iroquois Illinois league. The club was dissolved on Oct. 11, 1939, to be replaced by the Illinoisans, an organization performing the same functions. Unexpended funds of the first organization were turned over to the new organization, according to the pleading, and deposited in the American National Bank and Trust company under the name of Samuel L. Nudelman, state director of finance and a backer of the "harmony" ticket in the Democratic primary.

Await Injunction Ruling.

Judge Stone tomorrow morning is to rule on a motion for a temporary injunction to tie up this campaign fund, estimated at $200,000, pending an audit.

Lieut. Gov. John H. Stelle said tonight he approved of the audit and accounting sought in the litigation. He added that he did not know the complainant, State Policeman Sylvester Steskal of Springfield, and knew nothing about the suit except what he had read in the newspapers. Stelle is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor, opposing Harry B. Hershey of Taylorville, the Horner-Kelly choice.

"Employés of the state," said Stelle, "many of them on small salaries, are certainly entitled to know what has become of the money exacted from them on threats of losing their jobs. Their money has been handled by the small clique in the statehouse seeking to perpetuate their offices thru the election of a boss picked Democratic ticket.

Would Make Restitution.

"When I take the chief executive chair, I hope to make restitution to the state employés. Civil service employés forced to pay 2 per cent under threat are certainly entitled to a refund. Restitution should also be made for any improper expenditures made from this fund.

"I have no objections to voluntary campaign donations by state employés, but they certainly should not be placed on a compulsory assessment basis."

Lard Displaced

SPECIAL GRAND JURY TO ACT IN POISON SLAYING

Ellzabethtown, Ill., Feb. 25 [Special].—A special grand jury will meet here Tuesday morning to hear charges against Mrs. Vivian Gladys Jones of Rosiclare, confessed poison slayer of her husband, Noah. Jones died last Monday. His widow confessed Friday, 24 hours after she was arrested when leaving his grave following the funeral.

Vernon Snow.

Vernon Snow, a Rosiclare carpenter, 32 years old, for whom Mrs. Jones formerly worked as a housekeeper, also is in the Hardin county jail awaiting preliminary examination next Friday morning. He was arrested and accused of complicity in the poison slaying after Mrs. Jones confessed they planned to leave Rosiclare for a trailer tour as soon as she collected Jones' $2,000 insurance.

State's Attorney Clarence Soward said he would give Mrs. Jones' confession to the grand jury and ask for immediate indictment. Judge Roy E. Pearce of Carmi will be in Elizabethtown to charge the jury.

Snow said in his statement after his arrest that he knew Mrs. Jones had poison and what she planned to do with it, but he denied any part in the plot.

HITS ARMY USE OF SUBSTITUTES DISPLACING LARD

Rep. Brown Cites Market Loss by Farmers.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 25.—Representative Clarence J. Brown [R., O.] lifted his voice today to remark that President Roosevelt is not the friend of the farmer he pretends to be. Else Mr. Roosevelt, said Congressman Brown, would not permit the army to use 10 million pounds of lard substitutes annually.

"Today," said Mr. Brown, "hog prices are the lowest in many years, with the farmer receiving 5 cents per pound, and less, on the farm, for his hogs. He is being told that there is an oversupply of pork products. Yet the government, which is being supported by the farmers' hard earned tax dollars, is purchasing and using lard substitutes in great quantities.

All Materials Imported.

"These lard substitutes are manufactured from fats and oils, practically all of which are imported from foreign countries. Every pound of substitute used means one pound less of home produced lard consumed.

"Secretary of War Woodring, in a letter answering a query from me, gives the startling information that in 1937 only 3,361,000 pounds of lard were purchased by the army, while during the same year 10,175,000 pounds of lard substitutes were bought.

"In 1938 but 2,444,000 pounds of lard were purchased, while the astounding amount of 10,884,000 pounds of lard substitutes were being used by the army. In 1939 the army bought but 3,284,000 pounds of lard, while at the same time buying 9,897,000 of lard substitutes.

Costs Are Identical.

"Cost prices had no real influence or effect in connection with these purchases, for in almost every instance prices paid for lard and lard substitutes were exactly the same.

"Perhaps the above figures will give the American farmer some idea why he is unable to find a profitable market for his hogs. No wonder he is finding it so difficult to pay his taxes and to clothe and educate his family. With his own government favoring the use of substitutes manufactured from imported foreign products it is easy for him to understand why hogs are selling at 5 cents per pound in the live stock markets of America."

FIREMAN KILLED IN SPECTACULAR DETROIT BLAZE

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 25 (AP).—One fireman met death, five were injured, and upwards of 15 others were overcome in a spectacular blaze which destroyed a business block today at a loss of $20,000.

Hurled into the flames by a floor cave-in, Fireman Joseph Schneider, 32 years old, a member of the first of four companies to fight the fire, was killed.

Firemen poured tons of water on the blaze for six hours, after rescuing more than a dozen apartment dwellers living above the Sunnyside restaurant and other business establishments at Michigan and Liveronis avenues. Schneider was one of five firemen who entered the restaurant to fight the blaze.

BARE PERSHING'S ADVICE AGAINST 1918 ARMISTICE

War Till Surrender Urged by U. S. General.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 25 (AP).—Gen. John J. Pershing opposed the 1918 armistice with Germany and wanted the allies to push on to complete victory and unconditional surrender of the Germans.

Gen. John J. Pershing in wartime and today.

This was disclosed today when the state department published the second volume of the papers of the late Robert Lansing, secretary of state during the world war. The volume also reveals that a year earlier Lansing had expressed to President Wilson a distrust of peace proposals by Pope Benedict XV., because he suspected that the pope had become the unwitting agent of Germany.

Pershing's attitude toward the armistice is set forth in a letter from the late Col. Edward M. House to President Wilson enclosing recommendations made by the American general to the allied supreme war council on Oct. 30, 1918, when overtures were being received from the central powers for an armistice.

Points Made by Pershing.

The commander in chief of the American forces contended that: The allies were gradually increasing in strength thru American assistance and the Germans were weakening; morale was high on the allied side, low on the other; the Germans might use an armistice to revivify their army, and the allies might lose the chance to secure permanent world peace.

House's letter contains sarcastic comments on Pershing's initiative from David Lloyd George, Georges Clemenceau, and himself.

Pershing estimated that the allies on the western front had an advantage of 37 per cent over Germany in men and 35 per cent in guns.

"I believe," he commented, "that complete victory can only be obtained by continuing the war until we force unconditional surrender from Germany; but if the allied governments decide to grant an armistice the terms should be so rigid that under no circumstances could Germany again take up arms."

House, in the accompanying letter to Wilson, quoted Lloyd George as commenting, after reading the recommendations: "Political, not military; some one put him up to it."

Clemenceau commented, "Theatrical and not in accordance with what he has said to Marshal Foch."

Sees Hand of Germans.

House, apparently irritated by Pershing's initiative, wrote Wilson that Pershing handed him a copy of the recommendations "five minutes before I entered into conference this afternoon [Oct. 31] of prime ministers and foreign secretaries and without previous notification." The original already had been sent to the supreme war council.

One letter from Lansing to President Wilson, after the British ambassador had handed him a copy of the peace proposals Pope Benedict presented to the allies and the central powers in August, 1917, said:

"My own impression is that this statement of peace terms emanates from Austria-Hungary and is probably sanctioned by the German government. It is undoubtedly preliminary to the Stockholm conference" [an international Socialist meeting to prepare for peace].

The pope, according to Lansing, proposed restoration of Belgian independence in exchange for restoration of Germany's colonies; creation of an independent state out of part of the old kingdom of Poland, and waiving by all parties of the losses sustained by them."

Pershing Verifies Story.

Tucson, Ariz., Feb. 25 (AP).—Gen. John J. Pershing tonight labeled as "substantially right" references to his part in inter-allied negotiations preceding the 1918 armistice, as disclosed in the second volume of the papers of the late Robert Lansing, secretary of state during the world war. The general added that much of the material concerning him in Lansing's papers was carried almost a decade ago in his book, "My Experiences in the World War."

CHILDREN'S Frequent COLDS

✓ For relieving discomforts of chest colds and night coughs, rub VapoRub on throat, chest, and back at bedtime. VapoRub's poultice-vapor action relieves congestion of upper air passages—eases soreness of chest and back muscles—helps the youngster relax into healing sleep.

✓ For coughing and irritated throat caused by colds, put VapoRub on the child's tongue to relieve the irritation. Then massage VapoRub on throat and chest.

✓ For "sniffles" and misery of head colds, melt VapoRub in a bowl of boiling water. Have the child breathe in the steaming vapors. This loosens phlegm, clears air passages, makes breathing easier. Also massage VapoRub on throat and chest. Millions of families use these three time-tested treatments.

POLITICAL WAR FLARING ANEW IN LOUISIANA

Jones Opposes Long Being on Ticket.

Baton Rouge, La., Feb. 25 (AP).—Louisiana's long and bitter political battle flared anew today when Governor-Designate Sam H. Jones rejected the action of the lame duck Democratic state central committee in putting Gov. Earl K. Long forward as candidate for secretary of state in his official family.

Jones last Tuesday defeated Long for the gubernatorial nomination on promises to reform state politics and smash the old Huey P. Long dictatorship and the state machine that supported Long.

The next governor said in a statement he would not abide by the unprecedented action of the Democratic state central committee, which early today nominated Long as the candidate for secretary of state, filling the post vacated by the incumbent and Nominee E. A. Conway, who died the day before the run-off primary.

Refuses to Accept Long.

"I do not intend to abide by 51 votes of 'lame ducks,' 'deadheads,' repudiated candidates, and an indicted former governor," Jones said. "Earl Long was rejected by the people on Feb. 20. I accept the verdict of the people. Long should do the same."

Long, in a throwback to the amazing political resourcefulness of his late brother Huey, had marshaled his dwindling supporters on the committee into nominating him by a 51 to 40 vote early today after a bitter three hour battle.

Jones' refusal to accept the verdict of the body, which goes out of power automatically Wednesday when the newly elected and antiadministration central committee begins to function, threatened legal action that may reach the courts thru an injunction to keep Long's name off the ballot.

Plan New Selection.

Jones' campaign managers said the new committee would choose a candidate for the post of secretary of state subject to the general election April 16. All signs pointed to selection of James Gremillion, unsuccessful Jones candidate, against Conway in the first primary Jan. 16. E. A. Conway Jr. is filling out his father's term.

Gremillion received 40 votes in the postmidnight balloting today when the old committee finally named Long. Proxies for former Gov. Richard W. Leche, who is under federal indictment, and Mayor Robert S. Maestri of New Orleans were cast for Long, the former proxy being voted over strong protest.

The secretary of state post is a key one in the state government here, and a vengeful or obstructive official there could seriously impair Jones' "reconstruction" program after he takes over May 14.

TREK TO DINNER HINTS 8-4 SPLIT IN BOWEN JURY

Verdict Deadline Set for 3:42 P. M.

Twelve weary jurors were reported last night to be divided eight to four on the fate of A. L. Bowen, state director of public welfare, when they retired to bed at midnight. The jurors were in the fourth day [their 81st hour] of debate. They were believed to have taken hundreds of ballots.

Bowen is on trial in the Kankakee county Circuit court in Kankakee on a charge of gross omission of duty, which the state contends resulted in the typhoid epidemic at the Manteno state hospital last summer and fall.

The jurors marched in two groups when they left the courthouse for dinner last night. In the first group were six women and two men. In the second were two women and two men.

Division Brings Comment.

The two groups gave no indication of unfriendliness, yet the division was so obvious as to bring from observers the comment that it indicated their division in voting. There was much conjecture whether the majority was for conviction or acquittal.

The jurors were reported on Friday to stand seven to five for conviction. Since then there has been no hint of their stand.

Altho the jurors do not know it, Judge James V. Bartley of Joliet will dismiss them at 3:42 p. m. today in event they have not reached a verdict. He decided this yesterday after a conference with Samuel Shapiro, state's attorney; Victor Lauridsen, Shapiro's assistant, and John Mayhew of defense counsel. The appointed hour will mark the end of the fourth full day of deliberation.

Judge Urges Effort.

The judge summoned the jurors yesterday for the first time since he instructed them Thursday and urged them to make a conscientious effort to reach a verdict. From the disappointment on the jurors' faces it was believed they had thought he was calling them to dismiss them.

But they returned to their task without asking dismissal.

The jury's discussions and balloting have been remarkable for quiet. Altho the jurors played cards at intermissions of the trial, they have not even asked for a deck of cards since deliberation began.

BANDITS HALT CAR; ROB COUPLE.

Two colored bandits used their automobile as a blockade last night to stop the car in which Morris Reiner, 1251 South Avers avenue, and his wife, Esther, were riding, at Spaulding and Eastwood avenues. They took $10 from Reiner and his wife's fur coat and muff valued at $225.

PEACE NOW OR AFTER THE FINAL BATTLE.

No one knows what might have happened in Europe if Mr. Chamberlain, after the betrayal by Hitler of the understanding at Munich, had refused to guarantee any other territory in the east. France would have followed him and, what seems now to be a certainty, there would have been no war on the western front at the present time. Conjecture may deal with the probabilities of Hitler's actions in such circumstances.

If Mr. Chamberlain had made a different decision there might now still be a Polish state, even if reduced in area and apprehensive of the future. There might have been no Nazi-communist treaty and no advance of the Reds into Poland and the Baltic states. Finland might be at peace and Germany and Russia still professedly hostile. Great Britain and France probably would be in almost as active a state of military preparation as they are now, but the western front would not be considering the imminence of great battles in the spring.

A different decision than the one Mr. Chamberlain made could not have produced worse than the present conditions, and now the question is, how can better conditions be created? Only two methods can be considered. There will either be a war of exhaustion, with the victor forcing his will upon the defeated, or a peace by compromise and conciliation which undertakes to make the best possible arrangement for all the people concerned.

The world war discouraged the idea that peacemakers gain wisdom, tolerance, and foresight while they fight a destructive war. Four years of fighting with millions of dead and billions of debt do not seem to put statesmen into the best mood for making a peace which will endure even for a generation. They make a peace which will be broken as soon as new fighting men come of military age. The victor, for the time being, can have what he wants. He can temporarily have terms by dictation rather than terms by agreement, but experience offers no proof that the dictated terms will be good or that they will be durable.

Great Britain and France went into this war, by their own statements, because they could no longer trust Hitler, because they were convinced he would attack them after he had destroyed the smaller victims he had selected, and because they thought the conflict was inevitable. Therefore, their decision was to fight it now and fight it to the finish, to put an end to the intolerable situation of betrayal, aggression, and suspense. The Nazis say that Hitler rescued them from the treaty of Versailles and that unless they win this war and get their own terms of peace they will be put under another such treaty and for another 20 years will be binding their wounds, trying to recover their strength, and again be seeking release from destitution and oppression.

The neutral nations, which are still the more numerous if not the most populous, are caught in this conflict and know that if it proceeds to the bitter end contemplated by the fears and hatreds of the belligerents they will suffer increasingly each month as the war goes on and they may all be destroyed. The question of peace or war is one which, as decided now, may concern in a manner beyond our comprehension the future of Europe. It is difficult to perceive how a good peace can be erected on the ruins which a long war will make. There will be a very poor soil for any peace if Europe fights to exhaustion. The material for it will not be there. It will lack sustenance; it will have nothing to grow on. Ultimately there will be a recovery, but years of war will be followed by equally devastating years of peace.

The German people know this as well as the others do. Until the ruthlessness of the sea warfare is turned loose in still greater ferocity upon land there must exist a hope that the neutral peoples, less emotional and less passionate than the people at war, can make a plea for a sane reconsideration of all the problems contained in a readjustment of European troubles. It can be done now in a much better mood and with better prospects than it will be done when the spirit of destruction has been brought to its whitest heat by the final battle.

WEST INDIAN MYSTERY.

The British government announced the other day an 80 million dollar program of expenditures in the West Indies. Ostensibly the money is to be spent over a period of twenty years to advance the economic and social welfare of the islanders.

Americans who are familiar with the poverty and squalor in the islands will not doubt that measures of rehabilitation are in order. Riots in recent years in Jamaica, Barbados, and Trinidad called the world's attention to the plight of the natives and led to the appointment of a royal commission, headed by Lord Moyne, which was sent out to investigate. This commission submitted its report last December but the findings have not been published and, according to an announcement in parliament by the colonial secretary, Malcolm MacDonald, will not be published until the war is over.

Meanwhile the appropriation has been approved, presumably to carry out the commission's recommendations.

The need for rehabilitation is real but, in view of the secrecy which surrounds the matter, our state department will be justified in pressing the British government for guarantees that the money is not to be spent for military purposes. The West Indian islands could be used as a base for an attack upon the Panama canal or our own coast and for raids upon our shipping. Expenditures for public works in the islands might take the form of military preparation. As long as the islands remain in foreign possession they constitute a potential threat to our security; our government is, therefore, justified in viewing with suspicion any activity by the imperial governments in the Caribbean area.

THE CANDIDATE WHO ISN'T THERE.

Mr. Roosevelt, the no/yes—and/or candidate for the third term, will be running in a number of state primaries and he probably will have blocks of delegates instructed for him without saying what he proposes to do with them. The New Dealers who are running him are not particularly concerned with getting delegates. What they want is the biggest popular vote that can be polled.

The third termers are trying to set the prairies on fire, and where they control all the state patronage, have the use of federal grants and subsidies, and work allowances, they may be able in the absence of any real campaigns of opposition to run up a great vote. Most of them benefit politically and personally by a continuance of debt, deficit, and the outpouring of public money, and they think they can vote all these dollars.

When this expected showing has been made—if it is—the results will then be used to back up the assertion that the country tumultuously demands that the two-term tradition be thought of no more and that Mr. Roosevelt be renominated to be the first President regarded as so indispensable that the country must have him or perish. A man less susceptible to demonstrations of popular favor than Mr. Roosevelt might easily be tempted by such an opportunity to achieve the distinction of being the first man in the White House who was not permitted by the people to return to private life after he had completed the traditional length of service.

Mr. Roosevelt might be content with proof satisfactory to him that the third term was for him personally to take or refuse. He might regard it as a distinguishing feature of his career that when he retired he did so against the will of a majority of the American people and caused them sorrow by so doing.

People aren't very good at guessing what's in Mr. Roosevelt's mind and at present he may not be very good at it himself. It is even possible that he will turn from the crown and use the occasion for a historic address to the people which would embellish the distinction prepared for him by the beneficiaries of his grants and privileges. Whatever happens, we may be certain of one thing. Something handsomely Roosevelt will come out of it.

THE PURPOSE OF THE AIR BOGY.

Russian planes have been bombing Finnish cities since the invasion of that country started. The Finnish air force, comparatively, is weak. Such planes as the Finns possess have been needed at the front, with the result that the cities, aside from inadequate antiaircraft batteries, have been virtually unprotected.

Nevertheless the bombing raids have not thrown civilian populations into panic. They have not disrupted the rear of the Finnish army. They have been directed against railroads, but they have not disrupted transportation. The communists have used no gas. In view of their other tactics it is hardly probable that they have refrained from using it thru any scruples. They are not using gas because they believe explosive and incendiary bombs are more effective.

The Finnish cause is now in danger, and probably in very grave danger, from the Russian thrust at the Mannerheim line. Such success as the invaders have achieved there has been traceable partly to the Finnish lack of reserves, partly to the Russian ability to sacrifice the lives of thousands of infantrymen in frontal assaults, but principally to the Russian preponderance in artillery. It was the massed fire of artillery that made the Mannerheim fortifications untenable, not the bombs of the Russian air force.

The Finnish picture thus is not the picture of air terrorism that has been and is still being painted so assiduously for the citizens of this country. The horror stories of air warfare come, in small part, from the air branches of our own armed forces. These military and naval officers have a natural enthusiasm for their own weapons, and a natural ambition to increase their own stature within the military and naval organization. But they are professional gentlemen, with the technical man's aversion to making a fool of himself through exaggeration. They may be mistaken, but they are not insincere.

The real blood and thunder stories emanate from those who have neither scruples nor professional integrity. They recognize what every military and naval authority admits—that this country is in no serious danger of attack by land or sea. They, therefore, emphasize the horror of bombardment from the air in the hope that the people of the United States will become so frightened that they will accept the fallacy that our own safety requires our intervention in the quarrels of Europe.

Editorial of the Day

HONEST HAROLD CAN'T PLUCK THAT LUSCIOUS PLUM.

[Idaho Statesman, Boise.]

Ever since Secretary Harold Ickes became part and parcel of the New Deal and made it apparent that he had an all-consuming thirst for burocratic power, a shadow of fear has hung over stockmen, lumbermen, and miners that he would some day succeed in his ambition to steal the United States forest service from the department of agriculture and make it another bureau under his politically infested department of the interior.

And Honest Harold had victory within his grasp. There is no doubt about that, for it was common knowledge in Washington that the proposed transfer had President Roosevelt's blessing and the deal was all set. President Roosevelt, according to the best informed sources, had even prepared a message to congress making the change.

What a relief to read in the Statesman yesterday three items which would seem to indicate that Mr. Ickes' drive has been halted—at least temporarily—and that the aforementioned presidential order is to be withheld.

The forest service isn't safe yet, of course. It will be in danger from theft by Honest Harold so long as he remains head of the interior department.

News of the temporary victory is good news, nevertheless—about the best news the west has heard for a long time.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

BULLETS FROM THE BALCONY.

This might be a story for Shakespeare's birthday, April 23, but since it is remotely linked with the tragedy of Abraham Lincoln, whose lore is at high tide, we will tell it now. The Chicagoans to whom it was a familiar tale have vanished; and their successors seem to know little or nothing of it.

On April 23, 1878, in McVickers theater, an attempt was made to assassinate Edwin Booth, the greatest American actor of his time and brother of Lincoln's slayer. But oddly enough, the would-be assassin did not include revenge for Lincoln's murder among his crackpot motives.

Booth had come into halcyon days; his popularity was at its height; and he had shaken off the severe emotional effects of his brother's crime. He came to Chicago to act in his father-in-law's theater; he felt himself at home and at peace with the world. But in the middle of a performance of "Richard III." he found himself the target for an unbalanced patron's bullets.

There were two shots, fired from the balcony. The first was a wide miss, but the second sang past his ear. He was intrepid under fire; he came to the footlights and pointed toward the spot where he had seen the flashes. The sharpshooter was taking aim for a third attempt when he was seized by men in the audience.

[You can find plenty of scenes like this in the novels whose titles begin with "Death," but they are exceedingly rare in theatrical history.]

The assailant was a certain Mark Gray Lyon, a drygoods clerk who had been employed in St. Louis until he felt a compulsion to go to Chicago and kill Edwin Booth. He babbled to the police and the reporters about family reasons for the attempted murder; he hinted that he was defending the honor of a female relative. All this was printed, and it hurt Booth's feelings more than the shooting. [Borderline insanity was not well understood in that era.]

Lyon was committed to the asylum at Elgin. Booth worried over his possible escape, but the crackpot, growing saner, wrote him several friendly letters, and the actor, who had been close to nervous prostration for a while, became reassured. Lyon was finally released on parole, and caused no more trouble to any one.

Booth had one of Lyon's bullets set in a gold cartridge cap and inscribed, "From Mark Gray [the name on the police record] to Edwin Booth, April 23, 1878." He wore this as a watch charm for many years.

BALTIC REQUIEM.

One who loved gardens sleeps in the sea,
Robbed of the quiet of moss and of loam,
Strewn with no purple violets or fern,
Only with drifting flowers of foam.
Strange are the gardens fathoms below,
Ghostly the fluted petals of shell,
Wraith-like the waving green fronds where he lies,
Twilight, his shroud; silence, his knell.

Rest, till His coming, as on Galilee,
Lover of gardens, asleep in the sea!

Master Minds at the Telegraph Key.

Let us stand a moment with bared heads in honor of "Phillips' code." For the benefit of the young squirts who don't know what every young squirt knew when I was one, I will say that Phillips' code is a system of abbreviation used by telegraph operators in sending news matter and a working knowledge of it was required before a man could handle such a wire. Nearly all common words and expressions were cut down to a letter or two, and the uninitiated could not read a message if it were written in code.

But here is the remarkable thing—nothing was ever written in the code. As the operator listened with his ear against the rattling resonator and hammered his typewriter he was deciphering two codes simultaneously. One was the Morse code of dots, dashes, and spaces, and the other was Phillips' code of abbreviations. There were giants in those days! Sometimes they were "tight" as a drum head, but they could still handle two codes at once.

Here is an abbreviation the Washington operators added to the Phillips code: "Prans" meant "the President today sent the following nominations to the senate." Leonard Ormerod.

AN OLD TOMBSTONE.

It sags dejectedly beneath
The useless duty that it bears
Of holding up a name, for now
Nobody reads, nobody cares.

Erect for years that all might scan
The dead man's name, now grown too dim,
At last the old stone seems to say:
"Let me lie down and rest with him."

A Glimpse of Chicago's Broadway.

Come window shopping with me on Broadway some night, not George M. Cohan's, but Chicago's. What an Arabian night of delicatessen stores with their foodstuffs and wines; bakeries with temptations for your sweet tooth; florist shops with spring beauty; fruit shops for color; meat shops for choice cuts; homemade noodles in three styles; shops with appetizers; and rattlesnake meat from Florida. Cohan's Broadway may be the Broadway of wine, woman, and song; but our Broadway is all three with the trimmings for the world and his wife's dinner thrown in.

Now It Can Be Told.

Candid confession by Eugene Burr, dramatic critic of the Billboard:

"This reporter was one of the few people who thought that John Barrymore's Hamlet was about the worst ever seen on a stage, making even Fritz Leiber's seem like an excellent acting job in comparison."

MYASTHENIA GRAVIS RESPONDS TO PROSTIGMINE.

SOME day we will be thrilled to read in the papers that myasthenia gravis has been conquered. It may well be that the malady is another one of those deficiency states dependent for cure either upon a missing food element or a hormone that is not produced in adequate quantities.

The chief complaint of the victim is that he tires so rapidly and completely—out of all proportion to exertion. Not all the muscles of the body, however, will be affected. Not long ago I saw in one of our clinics a young woman who related that she first noted signs of exhaustion on attempting to fix her hair. She could scarcely finish the job because of her inability to raise her arms.

Now and then the "pullers" of the lower jaw will be involved and the act of chewing may be so wearisome that food will need to be disgorged to prevent choking. Even speech may become thick and dull and swallowing well nigh impossible.

One of the first manifestations that may be observed is drooping of the upper eyelids. In order to see, the patient is obliged to throw the head backward, thus permitting light to enter the narrow slit below the lid margin. Sometimes the eyes cannot be closed tightly and double vision may be present because the muscles are unable to perform properly. Strangely enough, there is no wasting of the parts and—with rest—there is some improvement altho not sufficient to permit entire resumption of activities.

Within recent years so much attention has been directed toward cure that a number of useful products have been suggested. These include glycocoll, ephedrine, pituitary extract [anterior lobe], and prostigmine. As might be expected, there is no one drug that will aid all patients alike. While glycocoll will supply relief with one sufferer, it will be useless with another. Apparently ephedrine and prostigmine are much more potent. In fact, the latter is so successful that it is resorted to by physicians as a test when the diagnosis is in doubt.

Recently the entire gamut of remedies has been re-studied carefully by Schlezinger. His conclusions indicate that pituitary gland substances, as well as glycocoll, are relatively ineffective. Ephedrine, on the other hand, is definitely beneficial. The prize, however, falls to prostigmine—which may be given by mouth, either alone or in combination with ephedrine. There is some reason to believe that each of these preparations assists the other and that when administered together a more satisfactory outcome is possible. Unfortunately, the results that follow a single dose will persist for only a few hours. It is necessary, therefore, that the patient shall have the compound immediately at hand and that enough shall be provided for at least three daily doses. As we would expect—when it is given hypodermically—the effect is felt more quickly than when utilized orally.

The case is reported of a 29 year old man who, for at least a dozen years, had exhibited drooping of the right eyelid and an occasional attack of "seeing double." As a lad he was fond of baseball but found that he could indulge in a simple game of "catch" for but a few minutes. Gradually weakness became excessive. He entered a hospital because of considerable difficulty with swallowing. He stated that when he attempted to take a drink of water the fluid would flow from his nostrils. He finally became so helpless that he could not wash his hands and face.

In this instance prostigmine hypodermically was the remedy of choice. Restoration of function began promptly and continued just so long as the medicine was prescribed. A mixture of ephedrine and prostigmine was decided upon, and under this régime he maintains reasonable efficiency.

No one knows—as yet—the cause of myasthenia gravis. The search, however, is on and some day the answer will come. In the meantime we have salutary chemicals with which we can ward off disaster.

CARBON MONOXIDE.

M. H. writes: Is there any simple means of testing the living quarters for the presence of carbon monoxide gas? I can't grow plants in my house and I was wondering if the escape of this gas could be responsible.

REPLY.

Birds are quite sensitive. If a canary remains healthy the chances are that you are in no danger. While plants will suffer in the presence of this poisonous gas there are other causes for lack of growth. Perhaps there is too little moisture in the air.

CYST OF WRIST.

R. T. writes: I have a small, movable lump under the skin of my right wrist. What is this and what can be done about it?

REPLY.

Probably a cyst—sometimes called a ganglion. Occasionally these growths disappear spontaneously. Your physician can advise you best.

SPINE DISEASES.

F. L. writes: What are the different diseases that may attack the spinal cord?

REPLY.

Infections [such as poliomyelitis, syphilis], ascending paralysis, and certain degenerative maladies—for example, multiple sclerosis. The list is long. The coverings [meninges] are also subject to disease.

PROGRAM FOR MURDER.

Chicago, Feb. 21.—Were I so minded to do so, here is how I would eliminate my worst enemies in Chicago:

[a] Buy a gun, openly or secretly.
[b] Sneak up and let my w. e. have it.
[c] After a suitable time, let the police trap me with scurrilous methods.
[d] Make a detailed confession.
[e] Have my lawyer get eight or nine women on the jury.
[f] Repudiate my confession, claiming police brutality.
[g] Walk out of court a free man.

WILLIAM F. WOOD.

ON THE TRAIL OF A THIEF.

Chicago, Feb. 17.—The description of the man who is stealing women's purses is the same as that of the man who stole mine more than a year ago.

I immediately called the police, but they did not find it. A couple of weeks later I had a letter from a woman in a far distant part of town. She had found my purse under the icebox when she moved into a furnished apartment.

I again went to the police, feeling if they went after the purse they could get some clew as to the thief. Town Hall could not be annoyed. So I went after the purse and got it, minus, of course, the money, and a keepsake bracelet. They could have found the man. The old tenant was just such a looking man as the one who stole my purse. The landlord had his name and his former place of business.

I feel that perhaps some little time given to freeing the town of these petty thieves, who seem to be getting bolder and more dangerous every day, would react to the credit of the department.

GERTRUDE ROE.

COTTON ED SCRUTINIZED.

Chicago, Feb. 19.—In Friday's TRIBUNE Cotton Ed Smith announced his intention of leading a secession movement by southern and other "constitutional" Democrats if President Roosevelt accepts the nomination. How many terms has Smith served in the senate? Why did he not retire from our governing body after two terms in office?

He professes to want a "preservation of the American form of government," yet, in his own state and other southern Democratic states, including Garner's Texas, a majority of the people are not allowed to vote in their own local elections. This accounts for his return year after year to Washington. When he leads a fight to free the people of his own state from oppression, then intelligent people of the United States will believe his desire is to assure every one of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

B. A.

CRAWFORD IS NOT LOST.

Chicago, Feb. 22.—I was rather amused to read Z. George Jaworowski's article, in which he stated that perhaps Mr. Gordon was lost, as thruout his letter he mentioned Crawford avenue. The gentleman states there is no Crawford avenue. I wonder if he would agree if I said there is no Poland. To me there will always be a Crawford avenue at 4000 west in Chicago. E. W. S.

ADVICE WE WON'T TAKE.

Urbana, Ill., Feb. 18.—In THE TRIBUNE of Feb. 17 there appeared a picture of a Miss Nancy Nicol who was elected vice president of the 1942 class at the University of Illinois. I believe you have shown undue favoritism toward Miss Nicol, since you did not show the pictures of the other elected officers.

In the first place, perhaps you would be interested in learning that only 2,472 students out of approximately 14,000 at the university voted in the election, and Miss Nicol received about 370 votes. Secondly, the candidates who are to run for offices are selected by a group of campus politicians who are very much in the minority, as you can see by the figures that are shown in the above sentences. Thirdly, the officers are not elected because of their qualifications to fulfill their executive positions but because they had more friends to vote for them than did their opponents who probably possessed the same qualifications, if not better ones.

In the future I suggest that you omit publications of all elections which are held at the campus of the University of Illinois, and if you desire to publish such news kindly give all of the information and put in all the pictures of the elected officers. G.

ANOTHER PRACTICAL SPORT.

Oak Park, Ill., Feb. 17.—Your editorial, "Throwing Your Weight About," compared weight lifting with pole vaulting, golfing, and football.

It seems to me that jiu-jitsu is the answer to the problem; it is great sport as well as being a beautiful and esthetic science. From the standpoint of physical culture it is unsurpassed; it creates in the layman grace, rhythm, and agility of mind and body almost beyond belief. Above all, it is eminently practical. Knowing how to fall, which is the first principle of jiu-jitsu, has on several occasions saved me from serious injury. Who knows when one may require the knowledge of such a science to defend himself or his loved ones from a brutal attack? E. E. RULLMAN JR.

THE NAME IS JACK.

Chicago, Feb. 23.—Mrs. K. may like the name Jack for her son, and it may look all right for a boy to sign his name Jack. Also for professional people. However, when a man signs Jack to a check or important paper it seems to lack dignity. At least, that's the impression of business houses. SECRETARY.

HAVE YOU CONSIDERED ATHENS?

Chicago, Feb. 23.—The trustees of Niles Center have made a grave mistake in not changing the name. Niles Center is a nice suburb, with rather good transportation, but the name is suggestive of a little hamlet with one main street and a general store, in front of which a hitching post still stands. I own a lot there and prospective buyers tell me that the name has no class. If the sentimentalists wish to cling to part of the original name, even Nilecrest, Nile Summit, or Nileland would sound better. READER.

NEW HOLIDAYS.

Chicago, Feb. 23.—Why are there no holidays in June and August? June is our loveliest summer month, the month when the butterflies and flowers are at their best. Why not have June 15 set aside as Butterfly day? In August let's set aside the 24th as Dogs' day. We say, "Every dog has his day," but has he? ANNE JESTY ROGERS.

PROVIDING FOR HEIRS.

Galva, Ill., Feb. 14 [Legal Friend of the People].—1. My husband and I would like to make arrangements so that in the event of the death of either or both of us our heirs could attain their inheritance without legal complications.

2. Should property and investments be in a joint account and, if so, [3] is a will necessary?

4. Would you kindly advise us what steps we should take to make this inheritance as simple and foolproof as possible? We have recently purchased a farm and in so doing it has made us realize that estates not in order are a bewildering and complicated business for the subsequent owners. So, we would like to avoid courts and lawyers, and all that they mean, and in so doing make things simple and clear for ourselves and heirs when the time arrives. K. H. C.

1. A joint tenancy would mean that the surviving joint tenant would take without probate, but this would not automatically put the title in the heirs. It is not clear whether you would be willing to have all of the parties joined as joint tenants.
2. This would be one way to handle it.
3. Not as to joint tenancy assets.
4. The best protection would be a personal interview with an attorney.

How Our States Got Their Names

43. VERMONT.

The name Vermont comes from the French words "vert mont," meaning "green mountain." One historian says the name was given to the district in honor of the Green Mountain Boys, who defended the New Hampshire territory when the state of New York attempted to take it by force. Vermont became a state on March 4, 1791. Vermont is known as the Green Mountain state, after the Green mountains. The Vermont motto is "Freedom and Unity." The state flower is the red clover. Vermont was first settled by the English in 1690. The state has no officially chosen state song, bird, or tree.

CAR SKIDS, HITS FENCE; DRIVER DIES OF INJURY

Chicago Heights Collision Fatal to Passenger.

Russell Wilson, 20 years old, 2750 39th place, was fatally injured yesterday when his automobile skidded on ice in Artesian avenue near 56th street and crashed into an iron fence surrounding Gage park. He died in Southtown hospital.

Homer Berther, 55, of the Hobbs hotel in Joliet, was killed in a collision at Joe Orr road and Ashland avenue, a mile north of Chicago Heights. He was riding in a car driven by Frank Zanco, 26, of 1511 Schilling street, Chicago Heights. Joe Borecki, 1420 Center street, Chicago Heights, driver of the other car, and Miss Frances Matis of Homewood, who was riding with Zanco, were injured. Berther was an employé of the Public Service company.

Hit, Run Driver Gives Up.

Everett Smith, 28 years old, 3400 North Keeler avenue, a postoffice clerk, surrended as a hit and run driver to Desplaines street police last night. Earlier in the day his car had fatally injured Steve Gray, 61, of 623 Madison street, at Madison and Jefferson streets. Smith, who was accompanied by his father, Lee Smith, told police he fled the accident scene because of fright.

John Giddes, 45, of 820 Bowen avenue, died in St. James hospital of injuries incurred when his car crashed into a culvert on route 1 a mile and half north of Beecher, in Will county, and then caught fire. Giddes was a house painter. He apparently had missed the road.

Killed by Hit-Run Driver.

Frank Zanowski, 51, of 3689 Broadway, Gary, a mill worker, was struck and killed by a hit and run driver in front of his home.

Joseph Zimney, 20, of 250 East 14th street, Chicago Heights, died in St. James hospital, Chicago Heights, after his car was struck by a Chicago and Eastern Illinois train at the crossing at 23d street and East End avenue in the suburb Sunday.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 154 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 115 were killed in Chicago, where 3,220 were injured in the same period.

PLAN PROTEST AGAINST NEW TRUCKING LAW

One hundred suburban truck owners will meet in the Downers Grove village hall tomorrow night to protest against the new Illinois truck act. The act, setting up regulations for freight transportation on state highways, will become effective at midnight Thursday. It was passed by the legislature last summer.

W. I. Davenport of Wheaton, president of the Small and Independent Truck Owners' association, to which many of the truckers belong, asserted yesterday that the insurance provisions of the new act will force many small owners out of business. The act provides that for hire carriers must have public liability, property damage, and cargo insurance, the cost of which Davenport claimed will be prohibitive for small owners.

"The new act apparently was drafted for the benefit of the large operators," Davenport said. "Its complex rules and regulations don't give the small owner a chance to stay in business."

OBSERVES LEAP YEAR BIRTHDAY WITH GRANDSON

Mrs. Maude Dyer, 60 years old, and her grandson, Erwin Dyer, 16, get an opportunity to celebrate their birthdays so infrequently that they celebrated four days in advance yesterday in Mrs. Dyer's home at 833 Cedar avenue, Elgin. Both were born in leap year, on Feb. 29, so their birthday falls only once in four years.

Arlene Boehm.

Erwin, an Elgin High school sophomore, living at 621 North Porter avenue, observed his fourth actual birthday, and his grandmother her fourteenth.

Arlene Lois Boehm of 3055 Lock street, a student at Holy Cross Evangelical Lutheran school, will be 12 years old on Feb. 29—her third birthday.

Diane Haase of 9208 Clifton Park avenue, known in Evergreen Park as "Miss Leap Year," will observe her first birthday, altho born in 1936. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Haase.

Gustav Klemperer of 5944 Glenwood avenue will be 72 on his 18th birthday Thursday.

Still another leap year celebrant will be Kenneth Bischoff of 5655 Waveland avenue, born Feb. 29, 1936.

CASH LOANS

HOW YOU CAN BORROW $100 IF YOU CAN PAY BACK $6.43 A MONTH

No endorsers or guarantors needed—No credit questions asked of friends or relatives—Prompt, friendly service.

You can get cash at Household Finance simply and promptly, if you can repay your loan in monthly installments. You may repay in very small installments if you prefer. Or you may make larger payments in order to pay up sooner. From the table below you choose the payment schedule which best fits your own needs and your own income.

Pick your own payment schedule

Suppose you need $100 and can conveniently repay $9.77 a month. The table below shows that your installments will repay a $100 loan from Household Finance in full in twelve months. Or, if you wish smaller payments, as little as $6.43 a month for twenty months will also repay a $100 loan.

CASH LOAN YOU GET	AMOUNT YOU PAY BACK EACH MONTH Including All Charges
	2 months loan	4 months loan	6 months loan	8 months loan	10 months loan	12 months loan	16 months loan	20 months loan

WE GUARANTEE the total amount figured by using this table to be the full amount you will pay, when payments are made on schedule. You will pay less if you pay your loan ahead of time since you pay charges only for the actual time you have the money. Payments are calculated at the rate of 2½% per month on loans of $100 or less, and 2% per month on that part of the balance above $100, which is less than the maximum prescribed by the Small Loan Law.

CHICAGO

R. E. HENDERSON, PRESIDENT

Find the amount of cash you need in the first column of the loan table. Then read across, picking out the monthly payment you can conveniently make out of your regular monthly income.

Sooner you repay your loan the less it costs

Note, in the last column of the table, that you may make very small payments if you prefer. See also that the sooner you repay, the less your loan costs. Four installments of $26.60 each, for instance, will repay a $100 loan in full. The cost in this case is only $6.40. (All payments shown in the table include the charges. You pay nothing more.)

One rate to everyone

Household has only one price—the same rate to all, whether new customers or former borrowers.

What you do to borrow

All you do to get a Household Finance loan is acquaint us with your needs. We require no salary or wage assignment, no stocks or bonds. (Loans are made on furniture, car or note.) No questions regarding your credit are asked of friends or relatives, neither do you have to ask friends or fellow-workers to sign the loan papers with you. You get your loan promptly, privately and without embarrassment.

Study the loan and payment table. See how you can repay the loan you need with a small part of your pay check. Then phone or visit us today. You will be under no obligation.

★ ★ ★ THE RULES ★ ★ ★

1. This offer is open to everybody—men, women, boys and girls—except employes of the Chicago Tribune and members of their families.

2. Each week day a picture containing the scrambled name of a prospective Presidential candidate will be published until 42 have appeared. Unscramble the name. Use every letter in the picture. Write or print the name on the line provided, or on any piece of paper. Hold all answers until you have the complete set of 42. Do not send them in separately.

3. Mail your entry by First Class Mail to: "Presidents," Chicago Tribune, Post Office Box 1539, Chicago, Illinois. With your entry send a letter giving your name and address and telling in 25 words or less who is your favorite for President of the United States and why. Letters will be considered only in the event of ties in solving the puzzles. In such event, sincerity and originality of the thought expressed will be considered. Entries must be in the office of the Chicago Tribune by midnight one week after Name No. 42 has appeared.

4. Entries will be judged by a committee appointed by the Chicago Tribune. Entrants agree that the judges' decisions will be final. $5,000 in cash awards will be paid to the persons who send in the nearest correctly solved, complete sets of unscrambled names. Neither handwriting nor elaborateness will count. In case of ties, duplicate awards will be paid.

Looking at Hollywood
By Ed Sullivan

Bagdad-on-the-Pacific

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 25.—Academy awards have simmered down to Vivien Leigh and Bette Davis, and Robert Donat and Jimmy Stewart; in the event of a deadlock a dark horse may wriggle thru. . . . Joan Abbott, the singer, and Benny Gaines, Boston night club owner, were married at Miami yesterday. . . . June Lang's current crush is Robert Melendez. His pappy was once president of Argentina. . . . Mickey Rooney making passes at Molly Voorhis. . . . Ruth Terry has Banker Dean Hyde talking to himself. . . . Irene Rich and Brandy Brent are making it a habit. . . . Charles Butterworth's ex-frau, Ethel, may try it again with Wright Ludington, the aviation big shot. . . . The flu epidemic has felled Rosemary Lane, Mary Benny, Errol Flynn, and Mike Curtiz this week. I think Errol "staged" his illness to get Lili Damita to kiss and make up. It worked, too.

Baby Snooks will have a new stepmother soon. . . . Hanley Stafford, the paw of the radio sketch, will wed Viola Vonn in April. . . . Back seat driving: Walt Disney was a trifle silly to release "Pinocchio" at the moment that "Gone with the Wind" was busting records. . . . Fifi D'Orsay tells friends that she'll wed Geon Bollini. . . . Jack Warner Jr. is running a temperature over Mary Anderson. She was one of the first eyefuls tested for "Gone with the Wind." . . . Kay Sutton has Wall Streeter Al Goetz going around in circles. . . . Jackie Coogan prefers two lumps of "Sugar" Geise. . . . Geraldine Fitzgerald off for New York, where she has made hospital reservations for the April landing of Sir Stork.

Greta Nissen is being squired by Charlie Grayson, Joan Crawford's former distraction. . . . The Smiley Burnettes will adopt a boy. . . . Paramount's Kay Stewart and Attorney Stan Levine are in a romantic dither. . . . Has Wilma Francis been the secret bride of Leon Janney, former kid star, for the last twelvemonth? . . . Marjorie Weaver, one of the nicer kids of the town, out stepping with Bill Doran. . . . San Fernando valley residents up in arms over the dynamite discharges that Charlie Chaplin has been using for his fake long range gun in the last shots of "The Dictator." Understand that Chaplin crawls into the barrel of the gun for one shot and is exploded out. . . . Greg Bautzer with Carol Gallagher. . . . No group of girls has won so much stagedoor traffic as the kids in "Meet the People." Edgar Bergen calls regularly for Fay McKenzie. Wrestler Bob Gregory is pursuing Bernice Parks, who stops the show with two of her song deliveries.

Linda Darnell's maw will accompany the stunning youngster to New York, which will be bad news to the wolves. . . . Herbert Marshall being very attentive to Lee Russell, at Ciro's. . . . Arrowhead Springs hotel, instead of flopping, grossed $50,000 in the first three January weeks. That's about 20 per cent above costs of operation. . . . Understand that Duncan MacMartin will put his $100,000 local home on the market. Canada argues that Canadian MacMartin spends so much time in the United States that he qualifies as a nonresident of his own land.

What happens to all-Americans? Well, Jesse Hibbs has it bad for Phyllis Orbison, Warner press agent. Jeffrey Lynn had a bad attack of Patricia Stillman. . . . Sir Stork is penciled-in for landings at the Director Marion Gerings' and the Lew Fosters'. . . . Cedric Gibbons was at the station to greet Dolores Del Rio and nix those rumors. . . . Will New York writers check and learn if pretty Virginia Langdon is the secret bride of Magician Russell Swan? She's been working in his act, and I hear that they were hitched secretly.

My Mae Tinée.

Good morning!

[OboyOboyOboy! Is THIS one thrilling!]

"Northwest Passage," filmed from Book I. of Kenneth Roberts' widely read novel, is, I think, everything lovers of the original have wanted it to be.

It is ADVENTURE, high, wide and handsome; tragic and disheartening; but always ADVENTURE in capital letters. A story of brave men who dared tremendously and who, even in defeat, were victors because the word "quit" was not in the vocabulary of Rogers' Rangers.

The picture follows the text as closely as could be expected and presents Spencer Tracy, the almost perpetual Academy award winner, in what is possibly his finest characterization. In Maj. Rogers of Rogers' Rangers he found a rôle in which he could let loose and HE does! His is a many faceted portrayal.

The man, Rogers, was not just commander to his men, he was teacher, guide, mother—BACKBONE. A rugged psychologist in his way, who knew the value of a belly laugh and the relaxing effect of a casual manner in times of stress. A man who asked no ranger to do what he was not willing to do first. A shrewd, fast and straight thinking officer, valued greatly but not enough by Britain's American Colonials in the French and Indian wars along in 1759. . . .

A large part of this picture is taken up with the journey of Rogers and his rangers into the enemy country to the Indian village of St. Francis. . . . Thither they travel, beset by peril, confronted at every turn by difficult portage, swamps, barren country—and hunger. . . . At the end of their grilling journey they succeed in what they have come to do—namely: wiping out the savage Abnaki Indians, allies of the French, and burning their buildings.

Then comes the retreat and the agonizing journey back. Starvation and varied hardships claim the lives of more than two-thirds of the rangers. . . . But, as the picture ends, there the gallant remainder stand—all set to start out again—in quest of a northwest passage.

Which brings us up to Book II.—and a possible sequel to this movie.

The picture is in technicolor and backgrounds are beautiful and awe inspiring. There was some canny photographing! Note the freshness of the rangers' costumes when they start out, and the color of them when the expedition is over. . . .

Mr. Tracy's superior performance is, of course, the picture's big white light. But Robert Young, Walter Brennan, Lumsden Hare, and other supporting players give splendid account of themselves.

The picture has sweep and is also rich in detail.

See you tomorrow!

Movie King.

In spite of all the stories about Mickey Rooney's growing up, when he was in Chicago recently he bought $30 worth of cookies and cake at a loop establishment to take with him on the train trip back to Hollywood.

Age.

A family group was discussing a friend who had just died at an advanced age.

"Yes," observed the youngest member of the family, "he was old enough for two, wasn't he?"

Comparison.

A gentleman from Lander, Wyo., who does not approve of Mr. Roosevelt's dodging of the third term issue, wrote a letter to his newspaper saying that the desperate attempt to build up public opinion to draft him as a candidate reminds him of the young woman about whom it was written:

There was a maiden of Siam
Who said to her lover, Prince Kiam:
"If you kiss me, of course,
You will have to use force,
But, thank God, you are stronger than I am!"

Vocabulary Additions.

Craig Leman's description of a certain type of unattractive female "haus frausy." . . . And Bert Mullins' coined word—"randomizing."

Support for Mr. Evans.

From the Shattuck Military academy publication:

Apparently the Shads who attended Maurice Evans' production of "Hamlet" did not waste their money. From all reports the rendition of the play surpasses most previous attempts by a wide margin. Then, too, the cadets ate a splendid dinner at the Curtis hotel before the show and had a chance offered them to dance if they wished.

The Stage

The Playwrights' company, undergoing a change of heart in the matter of competing with itself in Chicago, has decided to bring Katharine Cornell to the Grand Opera house on Monday, April 1, for a fortnight's return engagement in "No Time for Comedy." Miss Cornell's return thus will conflict with the Playwrights' première of Maxwell Anderson's "Key Largo," starring Paul Muni, which takes place at the Selwyn theater April 1.

To make way for Miss Cornell, Raymond Massey will conclude his Grand Opera house engagement in "Abe Lincoln in Illinois" on Saturday, March 30. The Robert Sherwood play will continue to tour for two months, winding up its career June 1 on the west coast.

At the close of Miss Cornell's two weeks in the Grand Opera house, the musical revue "The Streets of Paris" will take over the theater, beginning Sunday evening, April 14.

Choir Marches Like Robots and Sings Superbly

BY CECIL SMITH.

Yesterday afternoon the vested members of the Chicago Symphonic choir streamed single file onto the stage of Orchestra hall, concentrated themselves in a standing semicircle awaiting the entrance of Walter Aschenbrenner, seated themselves at a signal from him, leaned forward with stiffened backs and controled diaphragms, focused their eyes with zealous unanimity upon their conductor's baton, and, finally, opened their mouths to sing.

In the interests of what he believes, I am sure, to be good showmanship, Mr. Aschenbrenner has disciplined his choir to look like a group of robots. This kind of discipline evidently has its psychological effect upon the choir, however, for the choristers come as close to perfection as could well be imagined, in their eagerness to accomplish precisely the tonal, rhythmic, and interpretative results their conductor wishes of them.

From both the mechanical and the tonal points of view the choir sang superlatively well yesterday. In rhythmic precision, balance of the voices, dependability of pitch and tonal smoothness it has become a truly remarkable group. Its public performances are as finished as those of a fine instrumental ensemble.

Mr. Aschenbrenner's musical motives, however, are hard to understand. He tries to make the singing of his choir as instrumental as possible. In rather too much of yesterday's program the music took the form of solos—originally both vocal and instrumental—accompanied by wordless chorus parts.

Two novelties, both of which, in keeping with Mr. Aschenbrenner's preference, involved a lot of humming, were Gerrard Williams' "A Cycle of the Sea" and Zoltan Kodaly's "Transylvanian Lament." Of the two the latter was much the better, being free from preciosity of style and attempts to employ cliches of the contemporary Oxford university style. No choral classics from the 16th, 17th, or 18th centuries were listed, but the program did contain substantial works by Lvoff, Gretchaninoff, Healey Willan, and Charles Wood.

Not long ago Wilbert Liebling, who sang in the Auditorium recital hall yesterday afternoon before a crowded house, was a boy soprano. Now he is a highly promising young baritone, with a sturdy voice, many good vocal interpretative habits, and no bad ones. His voice has not fully rounded out yet, nor has his capacity to evoke the subjective mood of a song such as Schubert's "Nacht und Träume." Nevertheless he will be well worth watching. His accompaniments were played with unusual musical beauty by Gerald Cook.

Leona Flood, Violinist of 19, Shows Great Talent in Debut

BY EDWARD BARRY.

Leona Flood, a comely 19 year old Californian who has some European successes to her credit, made her American professional debut at the Studebaker theater yesterday. She revealed herself as a violinist of tremendous talent, who needs only a little more self-discipline and self-criticism.

Take the matter of tone, since it is upon that that the above remark is based. In some of the broader melodies of the Corelli-Kreisler "La Folia" she played with a richness and smoothness suggestive of well cooked oatmeal. A few moments later her tone might start going straight to the dogs, and she would remain indifferent to its direction and destination for a surprising length of time. For a time we kept saying, "Ha! A great artist!" and "Ha! A mere student!" alternately, but long before the afternoon was over the former exclamation had rolled up a far more impressive total than the latter.

For Miss Flood's tone, when it was good, was never used merely for its own sake, but to give point to some highly musical proceeding. The cello-like roundness of her lower register or the passionate shrillness of the higher would, when it was allied with some magnificently contoured piece of phrasing, take on an urgency and meaning calculated to mist the eyes of Moon Mullins himself.

She played in the grand manner, with a noble sweep to nearly everything she did. Even terrific technical difficulties did not destroy her direction and confidence. Indeed, her playing of the Paganini concerto suggested that she, like the composer, has made a secret pact with Satan.

It is in the very bigness of her style that the reason for her occasional difficulties with tone may be found. She demands of the violin musical dimensions to which the very genius of the instrument is not suited.

The Catholic Casino Male chorus gave its 67th annual concert before an overflow audience at the Goodman yesterday. In sacred music, and in German and English lyric songs, the group sang with smoothness and beauty of tone and with a wealth of expressive shadings and apt rubatos. Adalbert Huguelet conducted, Josephine Swinney served as guest soloist.

Mrs. Joseph T. Bowen 81 Today; Thousands Will Pay Tribute

BY JUDITH CASS.

THERE won't be a party to celebrate Mrs. Joseph T. Bowen's 81st birthday today, but the thousands of friends of Chicago's foremost feminine citizen won't forget to wish her a happy birthday just the same. Louise de Koven Bowen, who has been called the social conscience of her native city, has beaten the drums for many fine movements with astonishing results, but her great love, of course, is Hull house.

The settlement has been Mrs. Bowen's major interest for 47 years. She has been its only treasurer, and its president since the death of its founder, Miss Jane Addams. Mrs. Bowen has given more than a million dollars to Hull house, but of greater value is the courage she has infused into its friends.

Gives Half Century to Helping Others.

This tireless woman who was born to wealth and who could have stayed far away from the wretchedness of life chose instead to face facts and do something about them by embarking on a career of practical and uncompromising goodness. For more than half a century Mrs. Bowen has devoted her life to looking after the welfare of others. Her only relaxation these days is an occasional weekend at the Joseph T. Bowen Country club, near Waukegan, which she founded for working girls and sick children.

Mrs. Bowen's daughters and son, Mrs. deKoven Phelps, Mrs. William McCormick Blair, and Joseph T. Bowen Jr., all will wish their mother happy birthday in person. Mrs. Bowen Jr. and her daughter, Mrs. Jefferson D. Currier, will send congratulatory messages from Castle Hot Springs, Ariz., where they are on a holiday. Mrs. Bowen's great-granddaughter, Wendy Currier, is with Mrs. Currier and her mother.

Mrs. Phelps and Mrs. Blair are going to Florida next month for a holiday.

Sally Peaslee Engaged to Edward H. Hoffmann.

Mr. and Mrs. James W. Peaslee gave a tea at home in Benton Harbor, Mich., yesterday to announce the engagement of their daughter, Sally Sherwood, to Edward H. Hoffmann, son of Mrs. Max Hoffmann of St. Joseph, Mich., and Chicago.

Their marriage this spring will be the second one in Mrs. Hoffmann's family, for her daughter, Miss Caroline Hoffmann, and Bradford Brown, son of Dr. and Mrs. E. V. L. Brown of Winnetka, have set March 30 as the date for their wedding. Mr. Brown and his bride and Mr. Hoffmann and his bride will make their homes in St. Joseph. The Brown-Hoffmann wedding will take place at 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon in the Hoffmanns' St. Joseph home. The Peaslees formerly lived in Wilmette and Miss Peaslee attended the Francis Parker school here.

Miss Dorothea Wing and Douglas J. Scott of Wilmette are discussing June wedding dates. Their engagement has been announced by Miss Wing's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold W. Wing of Evanston.

Invitations have been received to the marriage of Miss Harriette Weisbach and Edward Norcross Jr. on Saturday, March 9, in the chapel of Trinity Episcopal church in Highland Park.

Because it is Lent, the wedding will be a small one, attended by only the families and a few close friends. A small reception will follow at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Weisbach.

Mr. Norcross, son of the Dr. Edward Norcrosses of Highland Park, and his bride will not go away on a wedding trip now. They will go directly to housekeeping in a house they have taken in Libertyville.

Friends of China Attend Tea for Lecturer Today.

So many interesting engagements are marked on today's calendar pad that there can be nothing of the traditional "blue Monday" about this particular midwinter day. Members of the American Friends of China who belong also to the Needlework and Textile guild of the Art institute will be torn between two parties.

Miss Florence Dibell Bartlett has invited the Friends of China to a tea at the Tavern to meet Miss Helena Kuo, who has been making friends for her country on a lecture tour of the United States. The party will be an especially gay and attractive one because Miss Bartlett is making the tea table Chinese in feeling, and she and her assistant hostesses will wear beautiful Chinese coats. The assistants are Mrs. Charles W. Dempster, Mrs. George T. Langhorne, and Mrs. Giovanni Cardelli.

Miss Kuo will speak on "Young China Will Live."

Members of the guild will hear an American born woman, Mme. Mary

The Girl in the Shadows

By Roy Vickers

[Copyright: 1940: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

SYNOPSIS.

On the eve of her marriage to Michael Alloway, Cynthia is wrongly sentenced to prison, the scapegoat of Rory Clarke. Michael knows nothing about it, as Cynthia has given the name of Clara Brown when arrested as Clarke's accomplice in a roadhouse robbery and murder. At prison, Bessie, Cynthia's friend, is wardress and changes places with her so she can marry Michael without him knowing of her disgrace. After the honeymoon Michael returns to his job in Malta and leaves her with his mother and sister, whereupon Cynthia returns to prison, but soon discovers she is going to have a baby. She escapes from prison and goes back to Michael's family. Clarke blackmails her, and Scotland Yard gets suspicious and arrests her as she attempts to fly to Malta to join Michael. Her marriage date, when Clara Brown was supposed to be in prison, clears her, but Marion, Michael's sister, becomes suspicious when she discovers that Bessie [who has left the employment of the prison to work for Marion], has sent a message of warning to Cynthia. Bessie is forced to explain to Marion. Clarke attempts to blackmail Marion while she is staying in Cynthia's London flat. The police trail him to her flat, but he escapes, using Marion as a shield. Cynthia and Michael return to London with their newborn son and Clarke attempts to blackmail her again. Michael, feeling sure it is mistaken identity, notifies Scotland Yard, who, hoping to trap Cynthia as well as Clarke, tell her to get the money from the bank to pay off the blackmailer. She is accompanied to the bank by a detective and the money she gets is marked. The Alloway family attend the theater and Clarke kidnaps Marion during the intermission. Realizing he is vain, Marion uses his egotism as her trump card in trying to talk him out of hurting Cynthia further. He [illegible] her return home after she promises to pay him enough money to leave England, for which he agrees to drop the whole matter.

INSTALMENT XLIII.

A BROKEN PROMISE.

Dr. Treadgrove was turning the pages of a notebook.

"The detective gave me your address in Camden Town," he said. "Here it is. Fortescue street. But he says, as far as he can make out, you couldn't have been there more than three weeks."

"I went down to Cloutleigh Manor after that and stayed with Mrs. Alloway," said Cynthia.

"Yes, and we were delighted to have her," put in Mrs. Alloway. "It was a pity she could only stay a week but there came that chance of her traveling with Sir William Merrowbridge, which was too good to be missed."

Dr. Treadgrove was still fluttering his notebook.

"That accounts for a month anyhow," said Michael. "What did you do the rest of the time, dear?"

It was one thing to refuse all information to the police, supported, if necessary, by a solicitor. In the family circle, the one thing one cannot do is to refuse information as to one's movements.

"I suppose I jittered about. I remember being fearfully restless," said Cynthia. "I did go down to Brighton but I can't remember how long I stayed. I've got an old diary but it's with my furniture, which was sent down to Devonshire after my flat was let. If they ask you any more silly questions, refer them to me, Dr. Treadgrove. And now tell us all the exciting things that have been happening while we've been away."

The doctor replaced his notebook, for she had made it socially impossible for him to continue. Michael lounged back in his chair. The party became wooden and presently Dr. Treadgrove left.

Michael had to go back to the office immediately after lunch. Cynthia went upstairs to take care of William Michael until teatime, while the Maltese nurse had her time off.

It was about half past two when a chambermaid knocked on the door and was bidden to enter with her master key.

"Will you allow the radiator to be inspected, please, madam. We tried to do it while you were at lunch, but the men couldn't get round. It'll only take a minute."

"O, very well," said Cynthia and a man in overalls entered with a tool bag, the chambermaid effacing herself.

The man went to the radiator, set down his tool bag, then turned round upon Cynthia.

"If I have to run out of this hotel, I'm running with your baby. I shall give you a mild jab in the chest and take him from you."

"What do you want?"

Outwardly, Cynthia, was cool, but the threat of violence to her child had unnerved her.

"I want that two hundred quid."

Even then, staring at him, she could not be sure that it was Clarke. He was a wholly convincing mechanic with just a tiny smear of oil where it would distort his face most.

"You can reach it from where you are. It's in my bag on the dressing table."

"Thanks."

He opened the bag, glanced inside the package to make sure it contained the notes, then transferred them to his pocket.

"It will take me about a minute to get clear. You'd better keep quiet for that time because if you start things I shall double back here—and take your baby with me." He produced a revolver.

She made no answer. He opened the window, stepped over the sill onto the fire escape.

There was a clock on the mantelpiece. She watched it for a full minute, then pressed the bell and gave the alarm.

Marion had had her hair done, having first taken the precaution to draw a hundred pounds from the bank by telegraphic arrangement with the Cloutleigh Branch.

A handsome woman, with qualities that would have made an excellent wife for a country squire, Marion had nevertheless predestined herself for "the shelf" since there were but two marriageable men within fifty miles of Cloutleigh, whose interests were elsewhere.

If Rory Clarke had kissed her she would have been genuinely revolted. It remained true that his history, rather than he himself, had stirred in her a passionate sense of usefulness.

In Rory Clarke, she thought, were all the ingredients of manhood, which she herself could have turned into usefulness and made of him a successful and lovable man.

With this thought was a streak of bitterness against her brother. If only Michael had brought him home regularly in the holidays, a friendship might then have been formed which would have changed all their lives.

She did not for one moment doubt that she had brought out in him all the pride and self-respect that still remained to him. That was little enough, but in her view it was well worth the doing.

There was a little bit, too, of the feeling that she was being rather magnificent. "There is so much good in the worst of us," she quoted to herself.

And beside all moral considerations, there was the practical side. She was dealing with a dangerous difficulty in a thoroly practical way. Once Clarke was out of the country, he would be, in a sense, out of their thoughts. And now that she had given him a measure of self-respect, he would not be likely to betray Cynthia out of sheer spite.

At a quarter to four, sleek from the hands of the hairdresser, she was waiting in the tearoom at Harridge's, managing to secure the last available table for two.

For a quarter of an hour she waited contentedly enough. Then, at one minute to four, a girl took the chair opposite her.

"O, do forgive me! I hoped to keep this chair for a friend," she protested.

"Barbara!" was the unexpected answer. "Even when you're expecting, you don't recognize me. You will believe now that I might have been a great actress."

"O!" gasped Marion. There was a sense of outrage in the knowledge that this trim looking young woman was Rory Clarke. In gesture and makeup—the lips were heavily carmined—it might well be a perfect performance. "China tea and toast for two," she snapped at the waitress. She looked again at her guest and shuddered. "You might have told me what to expect," she said irritably.

"You are disappointed in me—and that hurts," said Clarke. "And last night I went to sleep with the thought that you might have been the mother of my genius."

That was all very well. He had struck a spot—but the genius that she had wished to mother had been exclusively male.

"It's all right—it's only that it makes everything seem so strange," she murmured.

He was fluttering with his bag in correct feminine style. The hands, of course, were the weak spot but he kept them well concealed—hands that had taken life and perpetrated any number of stupid cruelties.

Varied and Numerous Blocks Make a Child an Ardent Builder

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Perhaps you've found that your little boy or girl shows slight interest in playing with blocks. The young child who has only a few blocks, or blocks not properly sized and assorted in relation to each other, is not going to be an absorbed and enthusiastic block builder, because his material is not right. But if he has what he needs, his blocks are almost sure to become one of the most satisfying playthings he owns. There is no better time to take care of this need than now, when weather enforces much indoor play.

At different ages little children play differently with blocks. You can see as you watch them that handling blocks is, at first, solely a muscle activity. This is one more way in which they learn to handle their bodies.

As their muscular skill increases and their experience widens they begin to build what they have seen. And then, provided they have the right kind of blocks in sufficient number, their play with blocks becomes rich and varied.

Supply your 4 or 6 year old with plenty of blocks and the right kind and he'll surprise you with the way he uses them.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

A move to reopen the old Immanuel Baptist church, 2320 Michigan avenue, where Dr. Johnston Myers conducted a bread line for 40 years, has been begun by John Nuveen Sr., who was Sunday school superintendent at the famous church for 20 years.

John Nuveen Sr.

Since the death of Dr. Myers four years ago the church group has had no leader, and circumstances, Nuveen said, forced the congregation to release the property under a mortgage.

"Our idea is to make a laboratory out of Immanuel for the benefit of seminary and training school students," Nuveen explained. "Sunday schools would be established in needy areas near the church. A comprehensive mission program would be carried out. We would serve 2,000 men in the Y. M. C. A. hotel near by and minister to the larger hotels and employés of automobile and publishing establishments in the immediate vicinity."

Nuveen made a plea for a young minister to make a life work of administering the church and cited the prediction made by Roger Babson, statistician, that Chicago will be the largest city in the world by 1967. He said that if the Baptist church loses the noted building the denomination will relinquish its last inner missions establishment.

"The insurance company which took over the property has offered to let the church repossess it for $65,000; $15,000 cash and the remaining $50,000 on a mortgage at 5 per cent interest," Nuveen said.

"This is an astonishing offer on the property, which at present has a rental income of $14,808 a year and is only partly rented at depression prices. The property consists of a large auditorium with a two story chapel, and Sunday school rooms in the rear. In addition is a modern, solid concrete 5 story office building costing $250,000 when built, all on a lot fronting on Michigan avenue."

A Good Girdle Is the Start of New Wardrobe

BY REA SEEGER.

The start of a good looking and wearable spring wardrobe is a foundation garment, be it a smooth sheath, a combine of girdle and brassiere in one piece or the separable duets. If you are correctly fitted with all curves under control, the fitting problem of dress, suit, or ensemble is reduced to a trifle, both in time and charges.

A size 14, 16, and the larger sizes will slip into position as they should over a skilfully designed underlayer cut and made for sizes 14, 16, etc.

There is nothing to cause a panicky feeling. Spring girdles, corsets or combinations are comfortable without a breath-taking squeeze in the lot. A natural figure line is stressed, a sylph-like princess streamline following the curves of the body. All such a smoothie does is to mold and control.

Waistlines are curved in, not pinched in, excess bulges disappear and flexibility is guaranteed. As for bones, the few that are used are so expertly concealed, so featherweight, and flat, that only an eagle eye inspection will find them.

Luxury fabrics at modest prices feature a lovely new peachy pink satin, lastex lace, and cottons as well as figured brocades. Detail such as contrasting panels of shiny material against dull, fagoting, fine lace used with satin ribbon to fashion the brassiere tops, the brocaded patterns of graceful bow knots, or a front panel with flowers and curving bowknots make these new spring underlayers the last word in charm and beauty. They're as dainty and feminine as your best lingerie and, with average care, stay that way.

Spring girdles are cut with high lines over the diaphragm, so the spare tire bulge hazards are erased. Smoothly inserted zippers make them easy to pull on. Good, sturdy seaming and good workmanship assure long wearing and all models wash like a piece of lingerie.

The lace lastex finds in girdles or combinations and the girdle panties are ideal for young figures. Flesh white and pastel shades are obtainable.

First Million Raised in Jewish Welfare $2,500,000 Campaign

The Jewish welfare fund announced yesterday that its campaign for $2,500,000 had reached the million dollar mark. Tomorrow noon a rally luncheon of campaign workers will be addressed by Rabbi Solomon B. Freehof of Pittsburgh, Pa., former spiritual leader of Temple K. A. M., 4959 Drexel boulevard. Dr. Henry Szozkies, who was once held as a hostage by the Nazis to assure the safety of Adolf Hitler during his visit to Warsaw, spoke yesterday at a conference at the Standard club.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1940: By Ely Culbertson.]

There is something about slam contracts that seems to have an unnerving effect on certain players, just as if they were perched not too securely at a dizzy height. I have seen players who can and do "play the spots off" mere game contracts suffer what amounts to funk when they are called upon to play for a slam that is not a laydown. Surely nothing but funk could account for the failure of the declarer in today's hand to make his contract.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
1 heart	Pass	2 diamonds	2 spades
Double	Pass	4 hearts	Pass
4 no trump	Pass	5 diamonds	Pass
5 hearts	Pass	6 hearts	Pass
Pass	Pass

The hand was well bid. West was correct in taking out the spade double to four hearts, since the opponents were not vulnerable.

South opened his top spade and North's ten was won by declarer's ace. The ace of hearts was laid down and the fact disclosed that North was void, which seemed to frighten the declarer to death. At any rate, his succeeding play was very bad. Instead of embarking on the establishment of West's diamond suit, declarer laid down the king of spades and then led a low one for a ruff in dummy. But South was wide awake and ruffed with his seven of hearts, forcing dummy's queen. Too late, declarer now saw he would not be able to ruff the last spade since South would overruff dummy if he were to try it. In desperation therefore he drew the adverse trumps and tried the one remaining chance of laying down the king of diamonds and then finessing against the queen [obviously he could not afford to lead the king and ace and then ruff a third round of diamonds, since in that case North would win the first club lead and cash a good spade]. The diamond finesse losing to North, the contract went down two as the club ace and spade queen were cashed.

Considering the fact that North had strongly indicated at least a five card spade suit by his bidding, the declarer's line of play was abysmally foolish. The moment the adverse trumps were found to be all in one hand, the declarer should have realized that the one chance for success lay in the establishment of dummy's diamonds rather than in the ruff of losing spades. Obviously, with the 3-3 diamond break, the proper line of play, namely, the immediate lead of two rounds of diamonds and ruff of the third round, would have made the contract a laydown.

Two Dresses and Some Toys

JUVENILE DRESSES AND TOYS.

The duet of patterns today presents two smooth little frocks for girls, and there is a third pattern for animal toys.

No. 2792 is a flared model with contrasting collar and cuffs, buttons down the front, and bunny applique pockets. All the washable silks and cottons will make up well, and prints are as pretty as plain shades. The applique is included at no extra cost.

The other dress has high pockets, ingenious button arrangement, and duck applique for trimming. For party wear or for every day, this is a dress little girls dream of owning. The applique is included in the design.

The chicken and bunny are easily made and the pattern for them costs 10 cents extra. The number is 1000.

Style No. 2792 is designed for sizes 2, 4, 6, and 8. Size 4 requires 1⅝ yards of 39 inch material, with ⅜ yard of 35 inch contrasting for dress and panties.

Style No. 2143 is designed for sizes 2, 4, 6, and 8. Size 4 requires 2 yards of 39 inch material, with ¾ yard of 35 inch contrasting for dress; ⅞ yard of 39 inch fabric for panties.

Each pattern costs 10 cents.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

For 15 cents buy the spring Chicago Tribune book of Clotilde Fashions, on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower 10 cents if ordered with a pattern. Address mail orders to the New York address above.

Mrs. J. T. Bowen Observes 81st Birthday Today

E. Raiola, whose home is in Italy and who has the splendid hope of teaching the blind of America to become self-supporting thru weaving. Mme. Raiola, who is visiting Mrs. Paul Hansen, is connected with the Museum of Naples. In recent years she has become interested in the Paolo Colosomo institute, where the blind are taught to weave. Some of the textiles with which she will illustrate her talk at 3 o'clock this afternoon at the Art institute have been made by these blind persons, using historic patterns of such masters as Michelangelo and Raphael. Mme. Raiola will give a survey of the textile arts from the Greek and Roman periods to the present day.

Alfred Duff Cooper Speaks Today at Woman's A. C.

More than 600 reservations have been made for luncheon at the Woman's Athletic club today following a talk by the Rt. Hon. Alfred Duff Cooper, former first lord of the British admiralty. The distinguished Britisher and his wife, Lady Diana Cooper, are at the Ambassador East during their brief Chicago visit, having come here from Montecito, Cal., where they were guests of Mrs. Stanley McCormick.

"The World We Live In" is the subject of a talk Mr. Cooper will give at 11:30 o'clock in the ballroom. Mrs. Bruce MacLeish, president of the club, and Mrs. Averill Tilden are giving a luncheon for Lady Diana after the lecture.

Many who will be in the ballroom for this morning's lecture will return to it at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon to hear the Rev. Gilbert V. Hartke speak on "Contemporary Playwrights" in the Chapel guild of the Cenacle's Lenten lecture series. Mrs. Henry Murphy, president of the guild, is giving a luncheon for Father Murphy in the Mirror room at the club.

Raymond W. Hadleys Become Parents of Son.

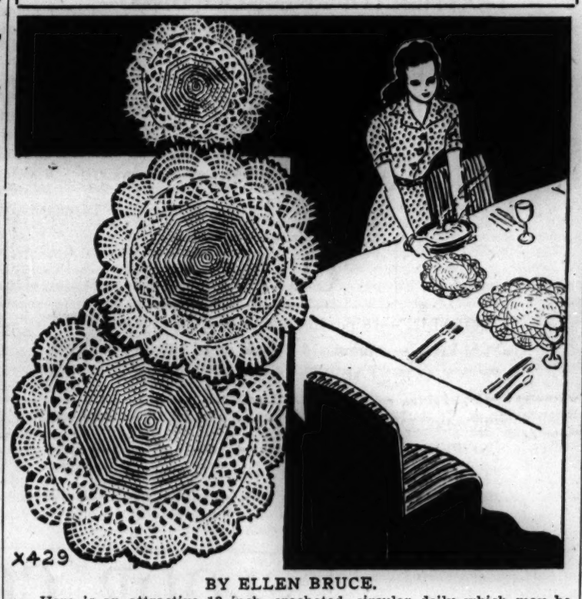
Mr. and Mrs. Raymond W. Hadley of Highland Park are being congratulated on the birth of a son on Friday. The baby and his 4 year old sister, Mary, are the grandchildren of Col. and Mrs. Edwin M. Hadley of Glencoe and of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick C. Clausen of Horicon, Wis.

A special preview of "The City," a documentary film on city planning, will be shown at noon today in the Esquire theater. Lillian Gish and the cast of "Life with Father" will be the especial guests, with Oscar Serlin, producer of the play and of the movie.

Miss Marguerita Hearsey, principal of the Abbot academy, Andover, Mass., will be especial guest of the Chicago Abbot club at a tea today at the Palmer House.

Mrs. George Robb Collins Jr. will give a tea in her home at 448 Barry avenue this afternoon for Mr. Collins' mother, Mrs. Roy Wilcox of Los Angeles, Cal., who is en route to New York.

Circular Crocheted Doily



BY ELLEN BRUCE.

Here is an attractive 12 inch, crocheted, circular doily which may be used for place mats or on asbestos hot plate mats. It is not a difficult crochet piece and the shell and fan design around the edge conforms perfectly to the hexagonal motif in the center.

For instructions in crocheting the 12 inch doily, No. X-429, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

Clear soups, such as bouillons and consommés, probably are more appetizing than any other soups at the start of a dinner of three or more courses. They are valued for appealing color and zesty taste, not for nutritional content.

Many cooks these days buy canned bouillons or consommés or use bouillon cubes or meat extracts.

Boullons usually were made from beef alone; consommés contain beef and veal or checken.

If such a soup is stored covered in the refrigerator it will keep for several days, so if you've a mind to prepare a party dinner from start to finish with your own housewifely hands, the bouillon or consommé may be made ahead of time.

Bouillon, or Brown Stock.
[About 2 quarts.]

4 lb. shin of beef
2½ quarts water
¼ cup diced carrot
¼ cup diced celery
2 sprigs parsley
¼ cup diced onion
¼ cup diced turnip [may be omitted]
4 whole cloves
1 bay leaf
Several peppercorns
¼ teaspoon crushed marjoram
¼ teaspoon crushed thyme
2 teaspoons salt

Have dealer crack the marrowbone and cut the meat into cubes or small pieces. Wipe the pieces and brown half of them on all sides in marrow from the bone or in a little hot lard or other fat. Add the browned meat with the unbrowned meat to the water. Cover and heat slowly to simmering. Simmer for 15 minutes and remove scum, using a tablespoon. Continue simmering for three hours, removing scum as it forms. This is very important if the soup is to be clear. Add remaining ingredients and simmer for another hour. Strain stock thru several layers of cheesecloth or a fine sieve, and cool quickly. Chill. A cake of fat will form over the top. This keeps the soup in good condition, so shouldn't be removed until just before serving time. Then the stock may be clarified thus:

TO CLARIFY STOCK FOR BOUILLON: Add 2 tablespoons cold water to the white of an egg and the crushed eggshell. Add to stock and heat slowly to boiling, stirring constantly. Remove from heat, add a fourth cup of cold water. Let settle, then strain thru several thicknesses of cheesecloth. Heat to serve.

CONSOMME.

Use the same recipe, but in place of the shin of beef, use 2 pounds lean beef, cut in cubes; 1 pound cracked marrowbone, and 2 pounds veal knuckle, cut up. If you have any chicken bones handy, they may be used, too. Sauté the vegetables in a little butter until lightly browned before adding them to the stock.

THRU THE LOOKING GLASS

"Poker chip red" is a new but already established color for accessories, clothes, and cosmetics. And a brave spring gesture it is, too. The new makeup is quite exciting, with rouges and lipstick in an exhilarating shade of rose red with a softly yellowed undertone.

This makeup is destined to be worn—and most successfully—with all those new reds that are lifting the midwinter doldrums.

There's a complete makeup keyed to the red of the poker chip.

The rouges can be dry or cream, as you wish; eye shadow is a soft blue, mascara the deep blue of the chip you rake in when you win. The face powder is a deep peach shade—beautiful ground for the red accents.

State of Mind Is Important to Loveliness

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

When a woman grows older there are bound to be a few wrinkles showing up in her face. Wrinkles are nature's way of putting the finishing strokes to the face that has looked life squarely in the eye and is looking ahead to the years to come with a philosophy that cannot be "downed," no matter what worrisome problems confront the owner of that face.

We speak of a philosophical outlook on life because it is the greatest wrinkle eradicator that has yet been invented. When discontentment and worry color the mind, these emotions leave their imprint on the contour. A woman with a happy disposition, therefore, almost invariably has fewer lines in her face than the woman who is a constant "fuss budget." Even women of 20 to 30 should be concerned about wrinkles if they have dry skins. Too much dissipation brings them on quickly, even at this tender age.

There is something that can be done to smooth out and to guard against wrinkles in the older as well as the younger visage. That something is to keep a happy frame of mind, get plenty of sleep, and keep the skin in the "pink" of condition.

The skin should be massaged with a good nourishing oil or cream nightly. It's beneficial to leave a thin film of oil or cream on overnight to lubricate the skin further. A way to smooth eye and brow wrinkles is to grease the palms, prop the elbows, close the lids, and begin by pressing the palms in lightly at the base of the upper lid. With firm pressure bring the palms up directly to the hair line, then send them in opposite directions to the outer forehead.

TOURNAMENT OF CHAMPIONS OPENS TONIGHT

BLACKHAWKS END BRUIN JINX, 3 TO 1, BEFORE 18,096

EXTEND STREAK TO NINE IN ROW WITHOUT A LOSS

Gottselig Scores Two Goals.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Chicago Blackhawks, 3; Boston Bruins, 1.

Johnny Gottselig.

There may be citizens who will regard the above as a glaring typographical error, but, honest, it was the result of last night's National Hockey league battle in the Chicago Stadium. Any one of the 18,096 witnesses to this glorious Hawk victory will be only too glad to testify to its authenticity.

The triumph was the sweetest the Hawks have enjoyed in many a season. For one thing it smashed the jinx whch Boston has exercised over them since the night of March 3, 1938. On that evening, the present world champions started a campaign of Hawk persecution which had extended to 14 consecutive lickings before the Hawks gained a measure of balm by tying the Bruins on Jan. 26.

Gottselig Is Star.

The victory also marked the Chicagoans' ninth straight league game without defeat and strengthened their hold on fourth place, 2½ games behind Toronto and four games ahead of Detroit.

It was right fitting that the explosion of the Boston hex should be ignited by the gent who has for 12 seasons been one of the most valuable hands in hockey—33 year old Johnny Gottselig. John has been taking his leisure on the Hawk bench much of this season, but last night he again doffed his carpet slippers for a pair of skates and proved that he is still a valuable hockey workman by scoring two goals, the two that were necessary to win the ball game.

Johnny Had Help.

John is doubtless proud of those two scores, but he'll be the first to admit that they bloomed from two perfect passes, and of all things, from defense men. In the first period big Joe Cooper fed the puck to Gottselig, who was right on Goalie Frank Brimsek's toes when he lined it home at 5:44.

Paul Goodman, the Hawk goalie, turned in another noble job, but in the 13th minute of the opening period his defense momentarily deserted him and he was lured out of his cage by Bill Hollett, who relayed the puck to Capt. Dit Clapper for the only Boston goal.

Mr. Brimsek's Amazed.

In the second minute of the final period, Jack Portland, Hawk defense man, drove down to within 20 feet of Brimsek, but instead of shooting made a masterful backward pass to Gottselig, who had trailed him down and who fired it past Brimsek.

The final score of the evening was registered by young George Allen, whose long side shot left Master Brimsek modeling for a candid camera shot entitled "Amazement."

The Hawks this week enter their most strenuous tour of the season, meeting the Bruins in Boston tomorrow night, the Rangers in New York Thursday, and the Rangers again in the Stadium next Sunday night.

McSpaden and Hogan Share Golf Lead, 214

New Orleans, La., Feb. 25 (AP).—Ben Hogan of White Plains, N. Y., and Harold McSpaden of Boston led the $10,000 New Orleans open golf tournament at the 54 hole mark today with 214 strokes each after a strong, chill wind had sent most of the day's scores above par.

Hogan, whose 138 had put him in the lead after yesterday's second round, slipped to a 76 today and allowed McSpaden, with a 75, to make up the one stroke's difference that had separated them. The White Plains pro lost the leadership when an eight foot putt rimmed the cup on the last green.

Tied at 215 were Sam Snead of Shawnee, Pa., and Lloyd Mangrum of Oak Park, Ill., who shot 73's, one above par, today.

Wilford Wehrle of Chicago, low amateur after each of the first two rounds, went to pieces with an 83, and his 229 dropped him to third place behind Freddie Haas Jr. of New Orleans, who had 147—74—221, and Henry Castillo of Louisiana State university, 152—75—227. Scores:

INDIANA TEAMS FURNISH CLIMAX TO BIG TEN RACE

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Unless Indiana university's basketball team comes a cropper tonight at Ohio State, the Western conference championship will be decided Saturday night in West Lafayette, Ind. This assertion is not intended to disparage the boys from the University of Iowa, who were beaten by Northwestern Saturday, but it is based primarily on the one game lead the Boilermakers have over the pursuing Hoosiers.

Altho Indiana defeated Purdue, 46 to 39, on Feb. 10 in Bloomington to tie up the race [Indiana having lost previously to Minnesota by two points], Northwestern gave Purdue its present advantage by upsetting Indiana, 40 to 36. Now Indiana must conquer Ohio State tonight to keep pace with Purdue, which is expected to wallop Iowa.

Iowa Might Upset Purdue.

Iowa might lick Purdue. Stranger things have happened and the way the Hawks performed against Northwestern Saturday night indicates that victory is within the range of Iowa's team. Iowa outscored the Wildcats from the field in the last game ever to be played in Patten gymnasium, but accuracy from the free throw line and a greater number of attempts whipped the invaders, 39 to 29.

If current predictions prove true, a capacity throng will see the conference title determined Saturday evening when Indiana meets Purdue. Granting both rivals win tonight, then a defeat for Indiana eliminates the Hoosiers. Victory for Purdue will leave the Boilermakers ahead of Illinois, final opponent a week from tonight, by two games, granting Illinois two victories this week.

This wholesale gift program probably will work out satisfactorily for the Illini, who ran over Michigan, 51 to 28, Saturday night. Regardless of what happens between the Indiana state teams, Illinois still may regard its quintet as one of the best in the Big Ten altho beaten by Purdue nine

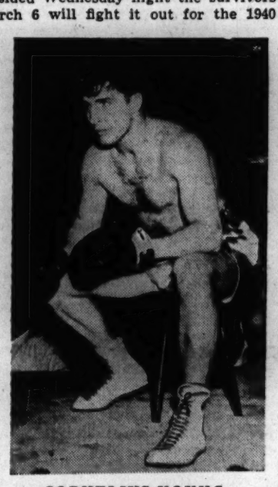
In the Wake of the News

BY ARCH WARD.

MORE THAN 300 of America's bravest young men eagerly are awaiting the great adventure of their lives. . . . This is the night they appear in the Golden Gloves Tournament of Champions, the goal for which they have been training and fighting the last several weeks. . . . When the firing has subsided Wednesday night the survivors will be the select group who on March 6 will fight it out for the 1940 championships. . . . They are here from Colorado, Ohio, Alabama, and Minnesota. . . . They have come from 43 out of town qualifying centers in 23 states. . . . There are big boys, little fellows, white men, black men, red men, and some of oriental extraction. . . . There are Catholics, Protestants, and Jews. . . . They have left classrooms, factories, truck drivers' seats, steel mills, and butcher shops in quest of the most cherished prize in amateur boxing—a golden glove. . . . They represent almost every walk of life. . . . Once two contestants enter a Golden Gloves ring, everything is even. . . . It stands alone as the most democratic event in sport. . . .



CORNELIUS YOUNG.

None of the participants ever will forget this day. . . . His nervous anticipation while waiting for the final physical examination and weighing in. . . . He paces the dressing room restlessly, sitting down occasionally in response to his coach's warning to keep cool and conserve his energy. . . . He steps on the scales and finds he is a pound lighter than yesterday, the loss of weight being attributable to the worry and nervousness to which he has been a prey. . . . He takes a look at the man he drew in the pairings, shaking hands with forced cheerfulness and cordiality, meanwhile secretly estimating his opponent's potentialities. . . . He begins to wonder if the fellow may be more formidable than his exterior suggests. . . .

Eventually he gets the word it is time to move up to the ringside where soon his bout will be called. . . . He takes his place, attempting to maintain a confident, disinterested demeanor, yet surreptitiously glancing across to see his rival walking in with what appears to be a slightly contemptuous swagger. . . . The coach whispers, "You're next, Kid," and he mounts the steps amid the ring lights' white glare. . . . The last thing he hears is his coach's tip, "Go to work on him, Boy." . . .

Then comes that awful, lonesome moment during which he gasps for breath, waiting for the bell to ring. . . . There he stands, twitching and stomping the canvas wondering what the next few minutes will bring. . . . The bell! . . . Biff! . . . He catches one right on the beezer. . . . There is the sudden realization that nobody else remains in the world except the two of you. . . . You turn your head to see your adversary, watchful, alert, and prepared for your counterattack. . . . Crack! . . . Holy Smoke, the guy has knocked me down. . . . Follows a moment of indecision and the fear of the ridicule and scorn if he stays down. . . . "That mug can't do that to me. What will the folks back in Sedalia, Mo., think if they hear I was knocked out in my first bout?" . . . He chooses the alternative of which he is least afraid and climbs to his feet. . . . His opponent steps back and winds up a terrific right freighted with dynamite. . . . It looks like a finishing punch. . . . But our hero steps inside and hooks his left to the chin with every ounce of strength he can muster. . . . It lands cleanly and to his astonishment the other fellow sinks to the floor. . . . Hooray! . . . He wins by a knockout. . . . He's on the way. . . . Make way, New York! . . . Look out, Europe! . . . There's a new Louis in Golden Gloves. . . .

They call it the Tournament of Champions. . . . Tournament of Heroes would be a better name. . . . Because they're heroes all. . . . The faint hearted never reach this stage of the world's greatest boxing tournament.

Ten Years Ago Today—A crowd of 5,000 saw the opening night bouts of the third annual Golden Gloves tournament in the Coliseum. . . . Jimmy McLarnin, coast welterweight, began heavy training for his 10 round bout with Sammy Mandell, lightweight champion. . . .

HACK OPERATION LEAVES CUBS SHY A THIRD BASEMAN

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Avalon, Cal., Feb. 25.—Cub infielders aren't due until next Thursday noon, but the camp here was infielder minded today when it became known that Stanley Hack has just started to recuperate from a rather serious operation.

Hack's holdout talk never had been taken very seriously. It was stated all along that he would sign in time to walk the gangplank at Wilmington Thursday morning. All such calculations were altered last night when Stan called Gabby Hartnett from Sacramento, told him he had agreed to terms, and then went on to explain he had undergone an operation that would keep him out of camp until March 15, two days after the Cubs leave their training base here.

Shortstop Will Move Over.

If Hack is not ready to start the season and there is no dealing before the opener, that means the Cubs will start the season with a shortstop playing third base. The Cub roster currently carries the names of two first basemen, one second baseman, four shortstops, and no third baseman other than Hack.

Of the shortstops, Bill Rogell, the veteran ex-Tiger, probably will do the filling in on the oversight of the Cub scouting department.

Practice Before Rain.

Today Manager Hartnett had all hands on the field, despite the rain which arrived three days later than forecast. The fellows had almost two hours of exercise before the precipitation became so pronounced they had to run for cover.

Before the downpour, Clay Bryant got everybody excited by making his first appearance on the mound, altho he did not bear down, of course. Clay threw the full pitching distance for quite a spell.

2 Parties to Leave

THE first contingent of the White Sox will leave Chicago for the Pasadena, Cal., training camp on the Santa Fe Chief at noon today, and a second group of Cubs will depart at 10:20 tonight over the North Western line to join the batterymen on Catalina Island. The White Sox party of 11, including pitchers, catchers, and rookie infielders and outfielders, will be under the guidance of Joe Barry, Sox secretary. Clarence Rowland, Cub scout, will shepherd a group of five.

Oklahoma City Indians Have That Punch!

The most colorful team to arrive yesterday for tonight's opening round of the Golden Gloves Tournament of Champions in the Stadium was the Oklahoma City, Okla., squad.

Four Indians are on the team, including Billy Tiger, lightweight, who had to withdraw in last year's quarter-finals because of a rib injury, and Gordon Casey, light heavyweight, one of the outstanding boxers on the squad. Jim Taylor is coach of the team, which worked out in the Catholic Youth organization center.

Amos Tiger, brother of Billy, is one of the Oklahoma coaches this year. Amos is trainer of the Chilocco Indian school team. Chilocco was the first school to become prominent in amateur boxing in Oklahoma. Billy attended Chilocco before enrolling at Cameron Agricultural college.

Casey, a fireman who has the appearance of Max Baer, is the veteran of the Oklahomans. This is his fourth trip to Chicago. Last year he was turned down by the doctors because of a foot injury. The kid of whom Oklahomans expect the greatest deeds is Wild Willie Looker, 126 pounder.

A young Joe Louis on the Oklahoma squad is Leo Wolfe of the Chilocco Indian school. He may win the 147 pound title. Most reckless of the Oklahomans from the Redlands is Delbert Triplett, heavyweight, who has the speed of a welter and the sock of a Jim Jeffries.

Other teams to finish training in the C. Y. O. gymnasium included those from Omaha, Kansas City,

352 BOXERS TO FIGHT IN THREE STADIUM RINGS

Lighter Boys Start 3 Night Program.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

The greatest amateur fighters of 23 states will launch the 13th annual Golden Gloves Tournament of Champions tonight in three Stadium rings. This mighty army — 352 strong — will slug it out for three consecutive evenings. When the last blow fal's Wednesday night the field will be cut to 32—four in each weight division. These survivors will return to the Stadium March 6 for the semi finals and finals.

Bill Renfro.

Tho the field which is setting out in quest of Golden Gloves titles is a large one, it is composed of boxers of a very high caliber. The size is due to the vast scope of the eliminations which were conducted in 43 cities where newspapers coöperated with Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc. The quality is assured by the fact that every boy in the field is a true champion in his own section of the country.

Calls for Their Best.

Tho these young boxers passed rigorous tests in earning places on their local teams, they will be called upon for far greater efforts if they are to stand up under the pressure of the Tournament of Champions. Boxing fans will be particularly interested in seeing how these fighters will react when thrown into the ring against the diversified competition they'll have to face in the Stadium.

A boy from the Texas ranch country may be in one ring fighting a youngster from the industrial districts of Detroit. Simultaneously in another ring a bout may be going on between a lad from the Tennessee hills and another from the Minnesota woods. At the same time in the third ring one of Chicago's champions may be slugging it out with a Cleveland star. Thruout the three nights there will be no time for a lull. This incessant action will be sure to provide this city's boxing fans with something of interest every moment the shows are in progress.

Success and Failure Ahead.

All day yesterday the squads were pouring into Chicago from north, south, east and west. Each team had two or three fighters of which it was particularly proud. Some of these boys may fulfill all the expectations of their followers and go on to championships. Others will fall at some point or other along the difficult road. That's all part of the exaltation that goes with success and the disappointment that goes with failure in the Golden Gloves events. Those are the things that help to make the Tournament of Champions a great show.

The Cleveland team, which last year brought in Jimmy Reeves and sent him to the light heavyweight title, has another boy it's particularly confident about this year. He is Beaufort Glover, a lightweight who is said to know all the answers to the problems that come up between the first bell and the last. His handlers say that he is a first rate natural fighter with an attack that makes him dangerous at all times and a defense that makes him particularly hard to hit.

St. Louis, which last year contribut-

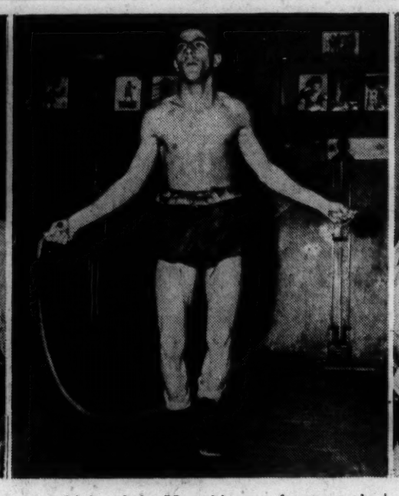
GOLDEN GLOVES CRUSADERS ARE READY TO FULFILL THEIR MISSION

Golden Gloves' greatest crusade moves into Chicago Stadium tonight, and only true champions will survive, Benny Leonard, ex-world title holder, tells Othel Green of Des Moines.

Experience helps, but isn't a sure entry to the fame which comes with a Golden Gloves championship. Vic Saccoia, 112 pounds (left), and Tony Ancona, 135 pounds, are Detroit veterans who know full well the difficult assignment they face.

Who? No—not Joe Louis and Max Baer, but Leo Wolf, 147 pounds, and Gordon Casey, light heavyweight, of Oklahoma City. Both are Indians and hope to emulate the deeds of Louis, Golden Gloves class of '34. [TRIBUNE Photos.]



Joe Links of the Memphis team knows you're never too ready for the Tournament of Champions, so he takes a brisk turn on the rope in preparation for the big battles ahead.

Dan Bottero, Kansas City lightweight, squares away before what he hopes will be a champion in a shadow boxing drill in the team's Palmer House headquarters yesterday. A total of 352 boxers awaits the amateur ring's supreme test.

C. Y. O. QUINTETS GAIN SECTIONAL PLAYOFF BERTHS

Survivors for C. Y. O. Basketball league playoffs, starting Thursday, were determined yesterday in closing games of the regular season. Mary, Queen of Heaven, defeated Blessed Sacrament, 22 to 18, for the sectional heavyweight title in Cicero stadium. St. Simon beat St. Nicholas, 35 to 29, in the St. Rita section, while St. Elizabeth and St. Cyril tied for first place in the Mount Carmel division.

St. Elizabeth won from St. Laurence, 31 to 21, and St. Cyril beat St. Philip Neri, 32 to 27, and will meet in St. Sabina gymnasium tomorrow night for the sectional championship. St. Elizabeth and St. Cyril lightweights also advanced to a section playoff tomorrow by winning, respectively, from St. Laurence, 37 to 8, and St. Philip Neri, 60 to 17.

Blessed Sacrament defeated Mary, Queen of Heaven, 32 to 29, and St. Anselm won from St. Nicholas of Tolentine, 42 to 31, to win sectional lightweight titles at Cicero stadium and Mount Carmel gymnasium, respectively.

Red Ruffing Admits He Wants a Raise in Pay

Long Beach, Cal., Feb. 25 (AP). — Pitcher Charles [Red] Ruffing of the New York Yankees admitted at his home tonight he is holding out for more money but declined to say how much. "It isn't any $5,000," he said, when questioned about reports he was asking a pay raise of that amount.

Hockey Player Seriously Hurt in Boston Game

Boston, Mass., Feb. 25 [Special].—Richard Spurr Lewis, 24 year old left wing of the Boston Olympics and former Dartmouth hockey star, was critically injured tonight in the Boston Garden in an accident recalling the near fatal injury of Ace Bailey of the Toronto team several years ago.

Thirteen thousand fans, including Lewis' parents and wife, saw him smashed against the boards near the close of the first period of an exhibition game between the Olympics and Atlantic City Sea Gulls by Eddie Powers Jr. of the visiting team.

Lewis was taken to City hospital where Dr. Donald Munro, famous brain surgeon who saved Bailey's life in 1933, was preparing for an emergency operation.

SCHWABENS AND SWEDES WIN IN SOCCER TOURNEY

The Swedish-Americans won the class B event and the Schwabens the class A competition in the season's final seven-a-side indoor soccer tournament which was held yesterday in the 132d armory under the German-Americans auspices.

The Swedes defeated the Center Sports club, 3 to 1, in the B finals, breaking a 1 to 1 tie which prevailed at the half with a pair of second period goals, one by Gallacher and the other by Hamilton. The Schwabens, meeting the Linneas for the title after five hours of class A activity, won easily, setting up a 2 to 0 lead in the first period on a pair of goals by Asbid and going on to a 4 to 1 triumph, Asbil getting a third goal in the final period.

The Schwabens won the junior four team tournament with a 1 to 0 triumph over the German-Americans on a goal by Reid.

Billy Ryan, Boxing Star of Early 1900s, Dies at 62

Syracuse, N. Y., Feb. 25 (AP).—William [Billy] Ryan, participant in more than 300 boxing bouts between 1896 and 1911 died today at his home in suburban Solvay. He was 62. Ryan's yellowed scrapbook showed his fights took him near the top of the lightweight division with victories over such fighters as Bert Moore, Emil Sanchez, Tommy Sullivan, Billy Maynard, Eddie Santry, and Tim Callahan. He was a protégé of Tommy Ryan, noted Syracuse middleweight.

Cleveland Owner Denies Allen, Pytlak for Hayes Deal

Cleveland, O., Feb. 25 (AP).—President Alva Bradley of the Cleveland Indians tonight discredited reports published in Philadelphia that the club had offered Pitcher Johnny Allen and Catcher Frankie Pytlak to the Philadelphia Athletics in exchange for Frankie Hayes, A's holdout catcher.

days ago. Two defeats in the first three games when Capt. Bill Hapac was ill have proved the hurdle the Illini scarcely can expect to negotiate.

Illini Can Help Hoosiers.

If Indiana does defeat Purdue, then all Illinois can do by winning the last game is hand the Hoosiers a clear championship. Again, of course, immediately preceding games are regarded as already won.

Ohio State can complicate all of this figuring by winning from Indiana tonight in Columbus. Ohio also meets Indiana a week from tonight, playing a return game with Michigan Saturday evening. The Wolverines, now in the depths, won from the Buckeyes in the opening Big Ten engagement, 40 to 35.

Northwestern now has undisputed possession of fifth position in the race and tonight starts the journey away from home which concludes the year. The Wildcats play at Michigan [they won the first game of the series] and wind up with Wisconsin and Iowa.

Illinois meets Chicago tonight in the Maroons' fieldhouse. Chicago has won only one game, but failed by four against Indiana Saturday evening. In the second game of the season, Chicago was beaten in the last minute by Illinois, 34 to 33. Tonight the score scarcely can be that close.

Irish on Last Lap.

Iowa is Purdue's opponent in Lafayette. Notre Dame begins its last drive to finish with a record superior to 1939. In three games, starting with the contest with Butler in Indianapolis tonight, the Irish conclude their schedule. The battle with Marquette Saturday in Milwaukee ends the Hilltoppers' schedule and a week later the Irish finish with Detroit in Detroit.

George Sobek, star sophomore forward, will not be in the Notre Dame lineup against Butler tonight. Sobek suffered a torn knee ligament in the John Carroll game a week ago Saturday and was unable to play against Marquette last Tuesday. He will probably be ready for Saturday's Marquette game in Milwaukee. Kenneth [Red] Oberbruner, senior from Ashland, Wis., will replace Sobek.

Skier Suffers Concussion of Brain in Crash with Tree

Adams, Mass., Feb. 25 (AP).—Robb S. Alexander of Salt Lake City suffered a severe brain concussion today when he crashed into a tree while competing in the eastern amateur downhill skiing championship on the Thunderbolt trail. Teammates of the Dartmouth college varsity skier placed him on a toboggan and took him to an ambulance. He was removed to the Plunkett Memorial hospital. Another skiing casualty was David Tufts of New York who suffered a fractured left leg when he struck a tree.

25,000 Fans in Paris See British Win at Rugby, 36-3

[Copyright: 1940: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, Feb. 25.—In contrast to the front, where nothing happened again today, there was much activity in Paris. Twenty-five thousand attended a rugby match between the British and French army teams—the first between the two countries in nine years owing to differences about past incidents. Enthusiasm shown by French spectators for the spectacular play of some of the British players was as great as that of the 5,000 British Tommies who came to cheer for their side. The British team won, 36 to 3.

Sioux City, Burlington, Wisconsin Rapids, and Grand Rapids. Fort Wayne's representatives also appeared, but they did not work out. The boxers merely checked their weights.

Cleveland, Memphis, Nashville, Davenport, and Springfield finished drills in Trafton's gymnasium. Members of the St. Louis Globe Democrat team ended training in the Allerton club gymnasium on Saturday.

Roy E. Davis, chairman of the registration committee of the Central A. A. U., yesterday telephoned Golden Gloves headquarters from Tucson, Ariz., to say he will be in the Stadium tonight in spirit if not in person. Davis is taking treatments for a sinus ailment.

Orlan Ott, heavyweight quarter-finalist last year, who lost to Champion Tony Novak, is back with Sioux City. He will be 18 years old in May, is 6 feet 4 inches tall, and weighs 212 pounds. He now is a freshman at Morningside college in Sioux City. Last year he was inexperienced, but he stopped Bob Owens of Fort Worth and Bill Cowan of Rockford to go to the quarter-finals.

St. Louis fans saw Joe Louis rise to fame in the national A. A. U. tournament in the Mound City in 1934. This year they are calling Jim Richie, 175 pound Globe-Democrat Golden Gloves champion, the outstanding amateur light heavyweight since that time. Richie began training for boxing at the time of Louis' rise to fame but did not enter actual competition until six years later.

John Lambert, middleweight of 1939, is the Nashville Tennesseean's only champion to return. He is now a light heavyweight and looks like the best to come out of the south in this weight in history.

One change was made yesterday in the makeup of the Bloomington Pantagraph team. Jack Galloway, Decatur High graduate and the runner-up in the heavyweight division, has been substituted for Len Billingsly of Roberts, the champion, who found it impossible to make the trip.

Max Schindler, Cleveland's featherweight, is the only boy who repeated as champion in the Plain Dealer tournament. He was born in Bavaria, Germany, and is an excellent saxophone player, leading his own orchestra at his Lorain, O., home.

Paul Benko, bantamweight champion from the Peoria Journal-Transcript tournament, won the novice title in the finals of the Peoria tournament and elected to challenge the open winner, Andy Duncan. Paul pounded out a decision over the veteran. It was his fourth amateur bout. Benko won fame as the tumbling cheer leader of the Woodruff High school basketball team.

TOURNAMENT OF CHAMPIONS WILL OPEN TONIGHT

ed Milton Jones to the list of champions, has high hopes for its heavyweight, Bill Renfro, this season. The delegation is also particularly keen on Leroy Bolden, who lost a close decision in an early bout of the last tournament to Ezzard Charles, who went on to win the middleweight championship. Bolden is stronger than ever this time, and has an extra year of experience back of him. The St. Louis folks also have a lot of confidence in the slugging power of their light heavyweight, Jim Richie.

Kansas City, from which Tony Novak came to win last season's heavyweight title, has brought up a light heavyweight who is considered the hardest hitter in the state of Kansas. His name is Ray Standifer. During the recent eliminations he knocked out Ralph McAnninch, who was the light heavyweight member of last year's squad. This delegation believes its best all around fighter is Bat Cullison, a flyweight, who has scored 80 knockouts during the 100 fights he has had so far. He can box adroitly when he has to, but he prefers to stand up and slug.

Detroit Likes Welterweight.

The Detroit squad brought in not only two of last year's champions, Vic Saccoia and Tony Ancona, but also another fighter in whom backers have high hopes. The latest Detroit candidate for the greatest honors in amateur boxing is Charles Hayes, a welterweight. Saccoia, last season's flyweight title holder, will defend his championship. Ancona, who dominated the featherweights last season, has moved up to the lightweight class.

There will be no further need for conjecture about the merits of these contenders once the slugging begins in the Tournament of Champions. All the enthusiasm of the home town folks won't count for much if the fighters haven't the goods to deliver. On the other hand, there will be many a jubilant story flashed back to Kansas or Oklahoma or Ohio or Tennessess if some of these boys demonstrate that they're really as good as their home town folks believed they were.

HAMMOND FIVE WHIPS DETROIT; HUTCHINS STARS

Dar Hutchins, former Bradley college star, scored 15 points to lead the Hammond Ciesars to their second straight triumph over the Detroit Eagles, National Basketball league leaders, in Hammond yesterday, 31 to 25. Hammond took an 8 to 7 lead near the close of the first quarter and led all the way.

ST. PHILIP FIVE AWAITS BID TO NATIONAL MEET

Wins Sectional Title in Catholic League.

BY JAMES SEGRETI.

Athletic officials at St. Philip High school are keeping a sharp eye for the mailman in the vicinity of Jackson boulevard and Kedzie avenue these days. The search for the postman began last Friday night when the West Siders clinched the north section senior basketball championship of the Chicago Catholic league and they now await an invitation to participate in the National Catholic prep tournament which opens in Loyola university gymnasium March 27.

Sol Rizzo.

Roy Olszewski.

Two weeks ago, Loyola officials announced only two Chicago quintets, winners of the north and south sectional races, would be invited to compete in the meet against the nation's leading teams. In recent years, four or more squads from the Catholic league found themselves in the national meet as substitutes for out of town quintets which withdrew at the last moment.

Rally After Losing Opener.

St. Philip had notions, before the season opened, of marching to the league championship and subsequently entering the Loyola tournament. Coach Bill Shay had rounded out a good squad. The boys lacked height, but were accurate sharpshooters. However, the outlook was dark for a short time when Fenwick of Oak Park won St. Philip's opening game, 23 to 22.

Since the Fenwick defeat, the West Siders have swept aside all opposition, winning nine consecutive games. St. Patrick became the ninth victim, 37 to 25, last Friday night. There are two more sectional games on St. Philip's schedule, St. Ignatius on Friday night and St. Mel on March 8, before it engages the south division winner for the league title.

Recall 1934 Tournament.

When the West Siders trot out on the Loyola court, it will be their first appearance in the national tournament in six years. Pat Howlett, who later starred in football and basketball at De Paul university, led St. Philip into the final round for the 1934 national Catholic championship, but the West Siders lost to De La Salle in an all-Chicago title contest.

St. Philip's supporters are hopeful this year's little band of sharpshooters will return with the title trophy. The squad's leading scorers all season have been the two 5 foot 6 inch tall forwards, Sol Rizzo and Roy [Lefty] Olszewski. In the St. Patrick game, Rizzo contributed eight field goals and three free throws and Olszewski flipped in four baskets and three free throws.

The regular guards are Ed [Rube] Kinsella and Elmer Kosiba. The center is Bernie Kennedy, a graduate of Our Lady of Sorrows grammar school, where he played on the sectional championship team, and the only six footer on the squad.

DUNCAN AGAIN BEATS MacQUINN IN MIDGET RACE

Ted Duncan of Chicago won his second straight main event auto race last night in the 124th Field Artillery armory by again outdriving Harry MacQuinn of Indianapolis. Duncan's time was 9 minutes and 2 seconds for the 40 laps.

Duncan, starting in the second position with MacQuinn on the pole, took the lead on the second lap and went on to win by 10 car lengths. MacQuinn ran second with Ray Richards of Chicago third. Paul Russo of New York was fourth and Myron Fohr of Milwaukee fifth.

Dan Hanley of Chicago rolled over in the consolation race, but suffered only minor bruises.

LAWNDALE WINS SIXTH STRAIGHT LEAGUE GAME

Lawndale lodge won its sixth straight game in the B'nai B'rith lodge division basketball league yesterday by defeating Albany Park, 49 to 25, in the Boys' Brotherhood Republic gymnasium.

Lake View, defending champion, moved into a tie for second place with Salomon as the latter lost to Garfield Park, 40 to 23. Lake View triumphed over Austin, 46 to 26. In the other league game, Cardozo turned back South Side, 41 to 34. The next round of game will be played Sunday afternoon in the same gymnasium.

WINTERROWD IS WINNER OF SKEET MEET; 3 TIE FOR 2D

Claude Winterrowd, with a perfect score, won the weekly 50 target skeet tournament at the Lincoln park traps yesterday.

Three missed one bird to tie for runner-up honors. They were J. L. Younghusband, W. D. Cox, and Harry Altice. There was a five way tie for third at 47 among Albert Gallert, Charles Zurick, Howard Helms, Mrs. J. L. Younghusband, and Margert Wolff.

379 PREP FIVES ELIMINATED IN ILLINOIS RACE

The first of four tournament stages in the race to the Illinois prep basketball championship eliminated 379 erstwhile contenders last week, leaving 480 survivors for the series of 60 regional tournaments, 11 of which open tomorrow. A majority of the other 49 start on Wednesday, with a few stragglers doubling up with a complete first round on Thursday.

Those still in the running for the 1940 title include 355 high schools of larger enrollment which were exempt from last week's district or subregional combat among the smaller entries. Joining them in the second stage of eliminations are the 60 district winners, 60 district runners-up, and five third place district teams fortunate enough to get another chance. In addition to these will be the quarter-finalists from an original starting field of 39 teams in the Chicago public school league.

16 to Survive March 9.

When this week's regional firing is concluded the 60 winners and 60 runners-up will be assigned to 15 sectional tournaments, March 6-9. Sectional champions then will join the Chicago champion in the state tournament at the University of Illinois, March 14-16, leaving only 16 from the record entry of 898 teams.

Regional tournaments which get away to a head start tomorrow are those at Carrollton, Chenoa, Chicago Heights, Decatur, Kewanee, Mendota, Metropolis, Paxton, Pittsfield, Taylorville, and Vandalia.

Of the other 49, those in the Chicago area starting Wednesday will be in Aurora, Crystal Lake, Glen Ellyn, Kankakee, and Waukegan.

Three Advance to Waukegan.

Lake Forest, Palatine, and Ela, placing one-two-three, qualified in the Wauconda district for the Waukegan regional. Riverside and Argo advanced from the Wheaton district to the Glen Ellyn regional. Grant Park and Manteno passed the district test in Grant Park and continue play at Chicago Heights.

The 125 survivors from the 504 starters in district play follow:

DISTRICT CHAMPIONS—Yorkville, Herman, New Baden, Winnebago, Vallier, Ipava, Eldred, Bowen, Patoka, Lexington, Grant Park, Wapella, Hebron, Homer, Warrensburg, Genoa, Paw Paw, Cullom, Roanoke, Troy, Teutopolis, Seymour, Mount Erie, Winslow, Lafayette, Riverside, Fillmore, Cave-in-Rock, San Jose, Mount Olive, Cissna Park, New Windsor, Sheffield, Latham, Golden, Wyanet, Simpson, Western academy [Macomb], Bellmont, Chadwick, Ina, Vergennes, Lee Center, Hindsboro, Thawville, Stanford, Coulterville, Pearl, Flat Rock, Orion, New Berlin, Seneca, Morrisonville, Arthur, Ramsey, Lake Forest, Alsey, Dana Sheldon, Cobden.

Long Island and De Paul Meet Tonight

Long Island university, the best basketball team in the east, will play De Paul a return game tonight in the Coliseum as the second contest of a double header which also matches Loyola against Beloit. The Loyola-Beloit game will start at 8:15 o'clock.

The Blue Demons will be out to avenge a 44 to 43 defeat suffered at the hands of Long Island before a record crowd Wednesday in Madison Square Garden. De Paul led Long Island, 41 to 35, with only a few minutes to play, but could not cope with the Blackbirds' late rally.

Coach Tom Haggerty of DePaul believes the Blue Demons will avenge the defeat. For the first time in weeks De Paul will start a full strength lineup on the home floor.

Lou Possner, brilliant sophomore forward, will be back in action. Before he was injured in the Toledo game three weeks ago, Possner was one of the country's leading scorers.

Loyola will face Beloit, proudly pointing to a one game winning streak. The Ramblers, after dropping 14 straight, rolled over Illinois college, 55 to 37, Friday night.

BIVINS, SUTKA BOX TONIGHT IN MARIGOLD SHOW

Six former Golden Gloves champions will appear in four bouts on the professional card in Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street, tonight. They are Jimmy Bivins, Cleveland middleweight, who will meet Joe Sutka of Wyandotte, Mich.; Tommy Pallatin, South Bend, Ind., welterweight, and Tony Yates of Minneapolis, billed against each other; Al Tibbits, Danville middleweight, who will meet Jimmy Burns of Pittsburgh, and Steve Souris, Gary welterweight, and Eddie Kozole of Detroit, who will clash in a four rounder. All others are set for eight rounds.

An additional four rounder will bring together Annunzio Ferraro, Milwaukee junior welterweight, and Pete Ferrand of South Chicago.

Hans Schnabel and Charley [Gorilla] Grubmyer will be opponents in a heavyweight wrestling bout this evening in White City, 63d street and South Park avenue.

Eddie Brink, New York welterweight, yesterday was substituted for Cal Cagni of Cresskill, N. J., in a 10 round headliner against Milt Aron of Chicago in the Philadelphia Arena tonight.

STATE CATHOLIC TITLE CAPTURED BY BLOOMINGTON

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 25 [Special].—Trinity of Bloomington won the state Catholic High school basketball championship tonight by defeating Corpus Christi of Galesburg, 21 to 15, in the final game. Trinity had won its semi-final game in the afternoon from Spalding of Peoria, 37 to 28, while Corpus Christi entered the finals by whipping St. Bede's of Peru, 25 to 23, in an overtime game.

Spalding took third place by winning from St. Bede's, 34 to 26. In the afternoon consolation round, Community of Sterling defeated Central Catholic of East St. Louis, 44 to 29.

CENTRAL RETAINS TITLE.

Fort Wayne, Ind., Feb. 25 (AP).—Central Catholic of Fort Wayne retained its Indiana Catholic High school basketball championship tonight by beating St. Joseph's of Collegeville, 40 to 27, in the final game of the annual tournament.

Gary Anglers Capture Team Casting Title

Eighty of the best casters in the middle west last night competed in the final event of THE TRIBUNE casting tournament, held all week in the International amphitheater as part of the international outdoor sportsmen's show. It was the team event, with five man groups from 16 clubs taking part, and was won by the Gary Angler's club with a score of 486 out of a possible 500.

Earl Garnsey, winner of the final obstacle casting event, scored a perfect 100 for the team. Other team members and their scores were Chester Garnsey, 98; George Morrison, 98; Clark Pugh, 96; and Harvey Hollenbaugh, 94.

Spring a Surprise.

A team of unattached fishermen provided a surprise by placing second in last night's competition. Their score was 483, with Richard Grutzmacher leading his team with a 99. William Gill was second with a 98, J. O. Love third with 97, Bobbie Cammack fourth with 95, and Joe Wanzung fifth with 94.

The Studebaker Casting club of South Bend, Ind., was third with a score of 477, and the Illinois Casting club fourth with 476.

Joe Wanzung, who helped the unattached fishermen win second place in the team event, scored 68 to win the final skish contest. Sterling Shoemaker was second with 68, Richard Grutzmacher third with 66, and Hardy Humes fourth with 65.

Wins Bass Bug Event.

The bass bug event held just before the team competition attracted 13 fly fishermen and was won by Walter Brewer of the Lincoln Park Casting club. His score of 98 was one point better than that of George Hess of the Illinois Casting club and three points better than the 95 scored by Howard Chatt, also of the Illinois club.

Officials of the sportsmen's show announced last night that 310,000 persons had visited the show during its nine day run, setting a new attendance record for events of this kind.

SHAMROCKS TIE HORNETS, 2 TO 2; SAILORS WIN, 4-1

The C. Y. O. Shamrocks and Chicago Hornets played a 2 to 2 overtime tie and the Muskegon Sailors defeated the Planerts, 4 to 1, yesterday in the amateur hockey doubleheader in the Chicago Arena.

Three minor penalties and one major were assessed in the opening game, with Tom Doherty of the Shamrocks drawing the major for starting a fight with Gil Miller of the Hornets. Doherty scored both of the Shamrocks' goals. Ray Hedberg and Louie Zeman scored for the Hornets.

Kuzma scored twice for the Sailors after his team was held to a 2 to 1 lead by the Planerts in the first two periods.

Roy Bietila Wins Title in Michgan Ski Meet

Ironwood, Mich., Feb. 25 (AP).—Roy Bietila of Ishpeming, Mich., won the class A Michigan state open ski jumping championship today with jumps of 181 and 191 feet. He also won the long standing jump contest with a leap of 197 feet. The hill record is 211 feet, set by his brother, the late Paul Bietila.

ECONOMY LEAGUE OFFERS PLAN TO BALANCE BUDGET

Would Cut 1¾ Billion Off Roosevelt Request.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 25 (AP).—The National Economy league proposed today that the federal budget for 1940-'41 be balanced by cutting $1,745,000,000 from President Roosevelt's recommendations for relief, public works, and the farm program.

The league called also for the lending corporations to return $700,000,000 to the treasury, terming this action drawing on the surpluses of lending corporations. It also suggested new taxes to yield $431,000,000.

Deficit Put at Nearly 1¾ Billions.

Mr. Roosevelt submitted to congress a budget totaling $8,424,000,000. On the basis of estimated income this would leave a deficit of $1,716,000,000 if all of his recommendations were carried out. These recommendations included imposing new taxes of $460,000,000 for national defense and reducing the capital funds of government corporations by $700,000,000.

The President, setting forth his figures into what he termed a simple form that any layman could understand, asked congress for $1,300,000,000 for work relief, $1,100,000,000 for public works and investments and $900,000,000 for agriculture.

The league, a private organization with headquarters in New York, made its proposal in a study entitled: "Must There Be Another Deficit?"

Cites Unemployment.

In making public the study, Ernest Angell, chairman of the league, said: "Forty-five million working Americans cannot much longer continue to carry the burden of eight million unemployed, a growing national debt now at 42 billions and a tax burden that has nearly doubled in ten years. They cannot continue without confirming the present paralysis of American economic life and making certain the permanent loss of liberty in exchange for the illusion of state guaranteed future prosperity.

"To tie the welfare and security of the masses to the slippery bubble of a sure inflation, blown up by the spenders' promises of debt-to-prosperity, is a cruel and stupid hoax."

LILLIAN GISH AND PERCY WARAM IN W-G-N RADIO PLAY

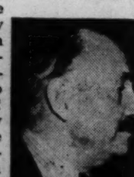
Lillian Gish, the stage star who was an outstanding screen actress during the silent movie era, and Percy Waram, veteran English-born actor, were featured in a radio adaptation of Richard Brinsley Sheridan's "The School for Scandal" on the Fifth Row Center production over W-G-N and the Mutual network yesterday afternoon. The show played to a standing-room-only studio audience.



Percy Waram.

Miss Gish, the heroine of the old movie epics, "The Birth of a Nation" and "Orphans of the Storm," portrayed mischievous, gossip loving Lady Teazle in yesterday's performance. Waram, who has distinguished himself in many Theater Guild productions, played the rôle of her blundering husband, Sir Peter Teazle.

Miss Gish and Waram now are appearing in Clarence Day's comedy, "Life with Father," in the Blackstone theater.

Indiana Man, Believed to Be Pauper, Leaves $40,000

HONOLULU, Hawaii, Feb. 25 (AP).—William Edward Hartley, formerly of Portland, Ind., who died here last Thursday an apparent indigent, left a fortune of about $40,000 in a safe deposit box. Authorities said they believed Hartley left a brother, C. R. Hartley, of Berne, Ind., and a sister, L. C. Hartley, of Pennville, Ind. They also mentioned as other relatives the possible survivors of three sisters, Mrs. Near of Garden City, Kan., and Mrs. Grogg and Mrs. Gemmill, both of Portland, Ind. There was no mention of a will.

MILLARD F. HOLLENBECK DIES.

Winnebago, Ill., Feb. 25 [Special].—Millard F. Hollenbeck, 83 years old, a resident of this community for many years, died at his home here last night. Funeral services will be held Tuesday.

Return 2 from Wisconsin for West Side Holdup Quiz

Louis Guido, 19 years old, 850 South Loomis street, and James De Salvo, 20, of 1345 Taylor street, were returned to Chicago last night from Oconto, Wis., where they were arrested as robbery suspects. They were found by Sergt. George T. Barnes of the Chicago detective bureau with the aid of Sheriff Joseph Foral of Oconto. Police said Guido and De Salvo are wanted for questioning in connection with a series of west side holdups.

FREE BUSINESS URGED; WAY TO USE IDLE MONEY

Bank Asks Removal of Restrictions.

New York, Feb. 25 (AP).—Removal of "restrictions and threats that now limit the scope of business initiative" was advocated today by the Guaranty Trust company as a solution for the problem of the huge stacks of idle money in American banks.

The big Wall street institution, in its monthly survey, said in part:

"Bank deposits in the United States are now the largest in history. The amount of money in circulation —that is, the amount outside the treasury and the federal reserve banks—also mounted recently to a new peak; and while there has been a seasonal decline in recent weeks, the amount is still not far below the 1933 maximum. The velocity of circulation of bank deposits, on the other hand, has sunk to a new low mark.

No Shortage of Money.

"These developments made it clearer than ever that the explanation of the unsatisfactory state of business is to be sought not in a shortage of circulating media but in the factors that prevent those media from circulating actively. Rising bank deposits have obviously been ineffective in promoting true business recovery. These deposits represent purchasing power ready for immediate use; but experience has shown that, regardless of how great such purchasing power may be, it will not be freely used unless other conditions are favorable.

"Neither the volume of deposits nor the velocity with which they circulate is subject to control by the banks. The initiative in both matters lies with the depositors—that is, broadly speaking, with the individual business men, investors, and consumers who own the deposits.

Profit Possibility Necessary.

"But this initiative, in turn, is controled primarily by the possibility of making profitable use of the funds. Only when such opportunities are believed to exist will the present stagnation give way to normal activity.

"For the most part, the solution of the problem hinges on public policy. The restrictions and threats that now limit the scope of business initiative and enterprise must be removed.

"This does not imply a sweeping abolition of all the legislative and administrative innovations introduced in recent years. Most of these are directed at worthy objectives. But it was inevitable that measures of such far-reaching importance, adopted in such swift succession, should contain numerous unwise provisions.

"What is required is a fair and unbiased effort to discover where the real impediments to recovery lie and to modify specific features of public policy in such a way as to make governmental influence as far as possible a stimulant, not an obstacle, to business activity."

Americans Turn Out 3,715 Aircraft for Civil Use in '39

Washington, D. C., Feb. 25 (AP).—The Civil Aeronautics authority reported today that American manufacturers turned out 3,715 aircraft for domestic civil use in 1939, compared with 1,843 in 1938.

Industrial Dip Cuts Midwest Work and Pay

Industry's failure to maintain operations at the high rate of December has resulted in less employment and smaller pay checks in the 7th federal reserve district, George J. Schaller, president of the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago, said yesterday. By mid-January he disclosed, employment at district manufacturing plants in Illinois, Iowa, Wisconsin, Michigan, and Indiana had declined 2½ per cent, and manufacturers' wage payments were down 4½ per cent.

George J. Schaller.

Declining steel and automobile manufacturing operations were largely responsible for the downward employment trend, the bank executive said.

Output Drops in February.

"Thru most of January district steel mills operated close to 90 per cent of capacity," he explained. "However, with a continuing downward trend in new orders the steel operating rate in this area fell abruptly and in the latter part of February mills were operating at 63½ per cent of capacity.

"As many steel consumers apparently had covered near-term requirements in the buying rush last fall the rate of new orders in mid-February was less than half the rate of outgoing shipments in the steel business. The price situation remained firm except in a few items.

"Automobile manufacturers held their production schedules in January close to the high December level, but as automobile dealers became more amply supplied February production was steadily reduced."

Furniture Business Improves.

Schaller reported new business received by furniture manufacturers in the 7th district showed substantial seasonal improvement as a result of the stimulation of the January furniture markets, rising to a level 10 per cent above last year.

New business of stove and furnace manufacturers rose substantially, but that of malleable castings companies fell below last year's level. An increase in the volume of new orders received by district paper mills failed to stimulate an expansion in mill production rates.

GIFTS AND BEQUESTS TO 52 COLLEGES SHOW ONLY SMALL DECLINE

Gifts and bequests to a representative list of American colleges and universities declined only 4 per cent in the fiscal year ended last June 30, the John Price Jones corporation reported yesterday.

A selected list of 52 American institutions, covered in the annual survey of the New York fund-raising consulting firm, received a total of $42,424,669 during the period, according to the report, against $44,235,986 in the year ended June 30, 1938.

Northwestern university, with total gifts and bequests of $7,462,178 for 1938-'39 led all colleges and universities; Harvard was second with $4,424,830, and Yale third with $4,209,487.

The survey disclosed that in the 1938-'39 fiscal year gifts alone declined $3,914,662, while bequests gained $2,103,345.

The annual average of total gifts and bequests in the peak period of 1925-'29, according to the corporation, was $56,976,454.

Sealed bids on Proposal No. 273 will be received by the Civil Aeronautics Authority, Room 7318, New Commerce Building, Washington, D. C., until 2:00 P. M. March 12, 1940, for installing lighting facilities on the Springfield-Chicago Cutoff of the St. Louis-Chicago Airway.

WHEAT BUYING BASED ON CROP FEARS AND WAR

Prices Rise Sharply from Feb. 1 Lows.

The double threat of crop failure and extension of the European war zone brought the public into the wheat futures market on a much larger scale during the last week.

At the height of the week's advance Chicago prices were 13 cents above the low point of Feb. 1. Experts said the public, as distinguished from professional traders, considered the possibility of the war spreading a bullish factor overshadowing the bearish influence or rain and snow over a large part of the United States wheat belt.

Public participation in the wheat market is most extensive during rising markets because of the proverbial bullishness of small traders.

Estimate Foreign Surplus.

The exportable wheat surplus of Rumania and other southeastern European countries which observers believe may be drawn into the war was placed at 136 million bushels for the current season. Russian shipments have been negligible because of last fall's poor harvest.

Altho grain experts were unable to measure the extent of the improvement to the United States crop resulting from the rain and snow which fell in many areas recently, they expressed the opinion that the department of agriculture's Dec. 1 estimate of 55 per cent of normal would be raised appreciably.

Farmers have begun large scale liquidation of wheat in storage against government loans, last week's sales being estimated at more than 500,000 bushels daily.

Corn Is Less Active.

Corn has failed to share in the increased public interest attracted to wheat, and prices have risen only 3 cents a bushel during the period in which wheat spurted 13 cents.

The range of Chicago grain prices last week follows:

	Wheat. High.	Low.	Close Feb. 24.	Close Feb. 17.
May	$1.07¼	$1.01⅝	$1.04⅛	$1.03⅜

ILLINOIS CENTRAL TO TRY OUT NEW FREIGHT SYSTEM

The Illinois Central system yesterday announced an experiment in freight handling which F. H. Law, vice president, said should "speed distribution and lower costs."

Under the proposed system, which will become effective March 19, if carloads are broken down and distribution begun within 48 hours after receipt, then a single classification of the less-than-carload rates will cover all additional movements, and those rates will be the fourth class rates, or the lowest less-than-carlot rates that can be used.

Distributors now pay carload rates from factory to a central distributing center and then face several classifications of less than carload rates in making distribution to ultimate destinations.

"The experiment for the present will be confined to the trade areas served by Memphis, Tenn.; Jackson, Miss., and Meridian, Miss." Law said.

Chicago's Recent Industrial Plant Expansions Are Large

Industrial expansions and improvements costing $3,300,000 have been undertaken in the Chicago area in the last 30 days, the Chicago Association of Commerce reported yesterday.

Two companies which previously had not operated in this area were included in the association's survey. One was the Dewey and Almy Chemical company of Cambridge, Mass., which announced plans to build a branch in Stickney township for the manufacture of chemicals for the shoe and can making industries and glass closure producers.

Another Industry Locates Here.

The other new industry which located in Chicago during the month was the Ultra Chemical company, manufacturer of floor waxes and household chemicals.

Chicago companies which announced expansion programs included A. Brandwein & Co., mattress manufacturer; Joseph T. Ryerson & Son, large steel products enterprise; Bunte Brothers, candy maker; Red Head Brand company, sports clothing manufacturer, and the Graver Tank and Manufacturing company.

Other Companies on List.

Others listed were General Bronze corporation, Metal Box and Cabinet company, and the American Flange and Manufacturing company.

Plant addition programs were undertaken by Division Lead company, Columbia Steel Tube company, Reliable Perforating company, Victor Vending company, and Federated Metals company.

JANUARY'S NEW CONSTRUCTION VOLUME FALLS

Last month's construction activity decreased in all parts of Illinois, with the Chicago area making the most favorable showing, a report of the Illinois division of statistics disclosed yesterday.

Permits numbering 959 were issued in 163 cities during January, calling for construction valued at $3,216,833. This was a decline of 41.9 per cent from the December valuations compared with an average seasonal recession of 11.4 per cent in the preceding nineteen years, and was 8½ per cent below the level of January, 1939.

Chicago's building permit valuations totaled $1,530,212, 23.1 per cent less than in December, but 15.5 per cent more than in January, 1939. Chicago suburbs issued permits for construction valued at $1,126,858, a decline of 42.6 per cent from December, but 8 per cent above January, 1939.

STEEL ORDERS MAY HALT DIP IN PRODUCTION

Steel consumers are still placing conservative orders with the industry, despite the absence of most of the incentives which prompted heavy buying last fall, the magazine Steel said yesterday in its weekly review.

This, and the fact that the production rate has dropped only two points to 67 per cent of theoretical ingot capacity, indicate signs of a check in the recent sharp recession in steel activity, the magazine reported.

Meanwhile, Steel said, export business continues active, and keener competition for foreign tonnage is reflected in the disappearance of nearly all the premium over domestic prices which such orders formerly demanded.

Scrap prices have yet to reverse their downward trend, Steel said. The publication's scrap composite dropped 12 cents to $16.67.

JANUARY RAIL REVENUES GAIN OVER YEAR AGO

Increases in revenues last month as compared with January, 1939, were reported yesterday by some of the leading railroads.

Edward J. Engel, president of the Santa Fe, said his road's net railway operating income amounted to $540,062, compared with $143,218 in the 1939 month.

Revenues of railroads reporting yesterday follow:

PARTNERS' RETURN.

I would like some information on filing income tax returns for partnerships. The partnership in which I am interested will file its return for the fiscal year ending Jan. 31, 1940. Do the partners have to file income tax returns for the calendar year 1939 if all their income was from the partnership? When is the partnership return due? When will each partner's share of the profits for the fiscal year ended Jan. 31, 1940, have to be reported on his individual return? What part of each share would be considered earned income?—M. H.

Answer: A partnership in itself is not taxable, but each member must report in his individual income tax return his proportionate share of the profits of the partnership. The partnership, however, must file an information form [No. 1065] showing gross and net income which are computed like an individual's net income except that:

1. Capital gains and losses are separated from ordinary income of the partnership and each partner applies his share of the capital gains or losses to his own return.

2. Salaries paid to partners and interest to each partner on any contribution of capital to the business are not deductible from income as expenses, but are considered as returns of the partnership profits. Withdrawals, as distinguished from salaries, are ignored in computing partners' shares of the profits.

3. No deduction is made for charitable contributions, but each partner may consider in making his individual return that he paid his portion of the contributions.

If the taxable year of the partnership differs from that of a partner, the share of income which he reports is based on the profits of the partnership for the taxable year ending within the partner's own taxable year. In this instance, the shares of income for the fiscal year will be reported in the 1940 income tax returns, if the partners file returns for the calendar year.

If the fiscal year does not coincide with the calendar year, the income tax return must be filed on or before the 15th day of the third month following the close of the fiscal year.

A reasonable part of a partner's distributive share of the business profits may be considered as compensation for personal effort actually expended. If both capital and personal services are income producing factors in the business, not more than 20 per cent of the distributive share of partnership net profits [computed without deduction of salaries] may be considered earned income.

PENNROAD PLANS TO CHARGE OFF LOSS OF $84,469,000

New York, Feb. 25 [Special].—The Pennroad corporation, buyer of key lines in the railroad merger campaigns of 1929, proposes in a statement that will be issued to stockholders tomorrow to charge off $84,469,036 losses in investments to capital surplus. This would cancel the present deficit and reduce capital surplus from $123,948,653 to $39,479,617.

JARVIS PROFITS SECOND BEST IN FIRM'S HISTORY

Gains Are Reported by Other Concerns.

W. B. Jarvis company, Grand Rapids, Mich., manufacturer of automobile body hardware, had net income of $622,592 last year, L. A. Jarvis, president, announced in his annual report, issued yesterday.

Herbert Abraham reports higher profit for Ruberoid company.

The earnings, largest since 1937 and the second highest in the company's history, compared with profit of $411,098 in 1938 and $728,708 in 1937. Per share earnings were $2.08 in 1939, $1.37 in 1938, and $4.86 in 1937.

"The year 1939 was one of the best years of growth and development thus far experienced by the company," Jarvis told the stockholders. "Net earnings seemed destined for the highest figure in our history—exceeding those of 1937—when interrupted and curtailed by serious strikes in the plants of some of our customers."

Buys New Equipment.

Jarvis said the company invested about $135,000 in new equipment last year. He expressed confidence concerning the present year, declaring:

"As we enter an unpredictable year, the outcome of which depends largely on conditions at home and abroad, our business is good, with prospects for favorable earnings in the first quarter."

Commercial Solvents corporation reported consolidated net income of $1,600,390, equal to 61 cents a common share, for 1939. In the preceding year the company had a net loss of $294,358.

Ruberoid company, building materials maker, had 1939 profit of $608,127, equal to $1.53 a share, compared with $515,472, or $1.30 a share, in 1938, Herbert Abraham, president, reported. He said a survey among distributors in 877 communities in 41 states indicated that dealers expect sales of residential building materials in 1940 to exceed those of 1939 by 9 per cent in dollar volume.
